President's Board Sits To Clear Dock Strike

Will Give Findings by Monday on Work Tieup of 60,000

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's Board of Inquiry into the east coast dock strike convened here for the first time today in a move to get 60,000 longshoremen back to work.

The board is scheduled to report its findings to the President by Monday night. Then he can seek an anti-strike injunction. The strikers have agreed to obey such an order.

Board members were sworn in by John E. Dietz, of the Washington, D. C., Office of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Then they went into a closed session to determine procedure and a tentative schedule for hearings.

Members of Board
Members of the board are David L. Cole, former director of the service; chairman, the Rev. Dennis J. Conney, S.J., director of St. Joseph's College of Industrial Relations, Philadelphia; and Dr. Harry Carman, former dean of Columbia College.

About 75 pickets booted and jeered as American Export Line non-longshoremen employees handled lines to aid the docking of the Italian liner Andrea Doria at Pier 84.

Except for the boing, the ship docked without incident. The number of pickets swelled to 250 within an hour after the vessel was berthed.

The waterfront generally was quiet as the strike went into its third day.

Police Protect Leaders
But as the inquiry board convened, police maintained protective guards over rival longshore leaders.

A third development in the tense waterfront crisis was a report that John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers (IND) had invited into its fold the AFL-ousted International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), which struck ports from Maine to Virginia in a bid for higher wages. The report could not be confirmed immediately.

The docks were quiet yesterday as an estimated 60,000 dockers were idled by the wage-contract dispute between the ILA and the New York Shipping Association (NYSA), representing 170 shipping and stevedoring firms.

FBI Reports Gunmen
Not involved in the contract fight but locked in a bitter struggle with the ILA for control for waterfront labor is the new International Longshoremen's Association, AFL (ILA-AFL). The AFL set up this group as a rival to the ILA, which the parent federation expelled for failing to rig its ranks of racketeers.

Local 156th Units Given Inspections

Kingston units of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Frank W. Harkin received their annual Federal Inspections Wednesday and Thursday of this week by the inspection team from Headquarters, First Army.

The Army Inspector General Col. Dee Miller White was in charge of the inspection and was assisted by Sgt. Vincent H. Fitzpatrick, also of Headquarters First Army.

Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, and Battery "A" were inspected Wednesday afternoon and evening. Service Battery and the Medical Detachment were inspected on Thursday. The afternoon phase covered administration, supply and maintenance while the evening phase included inspection of all personnel in ranks and of the training being conducted. A critique of the inspection was held on each night at the close of the drill periods. The new service center in the rear of the state armory also was included in the inspection.

Ratings Not Disclosed
The ratings obtained will not be announced immediately, however. Comments made by the inspection team indicated the local guard units may well be proud

City Registration Light For First Day, 2,140

Local Area Defense Test Set Sunday

Radio Control Will Be Activated at 2 p. m. in City Hall

The Kingston-Ulster Civil Defense Council will participate Sunday afternoon in the seventh annual national simulated emergency test of the American Radio Relay League, it has been announced.

H. W. Bartsch, deputy director of communications for the local Council, told The Freeman today that the radio control station at city hall will be activated beginning at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

To Use Mobile Sets
Five mobile two-way radio receivers and transmitters will also be employed in the test, he pointed out.

Manned by Bartsch and four licensed "ham" operators, the local Council will originate messages from Col. Allen L. Hanstein, director of the Council, and from the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Messages from Hanstein will be sent to Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, state Civil Defense director, and those from the Red Cross chapter will go to the National headquarters of the American Red Cross.

Just for Communications
The test will be similar to that of last week but will involve communications only. Last week all departments were activated in New York City.

Manning the control station at city hall will be John and Arthur Bense, Charles Costa and John Heitzman, all licensed "ham" operators of Kingston.

Maj. John M. Hiltón of Saugerties, Council director of operations, will be in charge of local Civil Defense message traffic.

Anyone wishing to observe the radio control station in operation will be welcome tomorrow afternoon, Bartsch said. The station is located on the first floor of city hall.

Aged Woman Is Raped
New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—An 80-year-old woman was raped and robbed early today in her ground floor apartment in Coney Island police reported. The woman, Mrs. Ida Goldstein, was taken to Coney Island Hospital, where her condition was described as critical. She was found by a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Wagman, and a niece, Miss Josephine Wagman, who live above her in the two-story house. The Wagmans said they heard her sobbing, ran to her room, switched on a light and saw a Negro youth of about 20 dash by them and out of the house.

Returning 'Cowpokes' Given First Big Official Welcome in Woodstock Friday

Woodstock, Oct. 3—A large contingent of distinguished Woodstockers, among them artists, writers and musicians, gathered at the Country Club bridge before noon Friday to give the first of a series of welcomes to the home-bound quartet of young people on the final lap of their horseback ride from Texas to Bears-ville. Although there had been a small reception Thursday night when the weary travelers pulled into West Shokan, riding four horses and leading three, this was the big welcome and traffic came to a halt at the bridge.

Friends with the members of the local and Metropolitan press in flinging a barrage of questions at the four riders, Cayla Hitzig, 17, Nini Galpin, 23, Bruce Whiteley, 16 and Rupert Hitzig, 15. In their well-worn blue jeans, dusty boots and bright plaid shirts, the girls both blonde and radiantly tanned and the boys brown and wearing battered cowboy hats, were a colorful objective for the battery of cameras.

Up at 5 a. m. at the Koritke farm where they had spent the night the cowpokes hit Wittenberg at 8 a. m., and were only a few minutes late for their rendezvous with friends and family at the bridge at noon.

"Oh, it's so nice to be home!" was Cayla's greeting.

Nini introduced the small puppy cuddled on her saddle. "This is Sammy. We found him on the highway in Tennessee and he refused to be abandoned." The pup which appeared to possibly have been of beagle ancestry, is now half grown, but when he first joined the pack trip he was so tiny he could be held in the palm of Nini's hand.

The troupe left Austin, Tex., June 15, with eight horses, one of which had to be left in Kentucky because of an injury. They've ridden 2,200 miles, pitched camp many nights in the open, and been royally entertained at motels in Arkansas.

"I can't say enough for the state of Arkansas," said Bruce. "The people there were wonderful."

Lag Is Reported All Over State; Polls Close 10 Tonight

Registration in the city's 20 election districts totaled 2,140 yesterday, the lightest recorded here for several years.

This turnout paralleled a general lag noted by the Associated Press in the upstate area as the first of four personal registration days opened for the area outside of New York City and Westchester county.

Election officials called attention however, to the fact that this is an off-year election and that registration tends to be lighter for that reason.

The total registration yesterday compares with 4,149 for the first day last year, 2,859 for 1951, 2,710 for 1950 and 2,445 for 1949.

Voters may also register today and again next week, October 9 and 10. Polls will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. today.

Germans Prefer West

Camp Friedland, Germany, Oct. 3 (AP)—Two hundred German repatriates from Russia with homes in the east zone have chosen to start life anew in the West German republic, it was disclosed today. The former prisoners said they made up their minds not to go home when they saw the police rule in East Germany as their train reached Frankfurt-on-Order. They were among 2,621 German "war criminals" released in the past week.

15,000 Bags Catch Fire At Kaplan's

Fireman Williams Gets Burning Truck Out of Building Holding 100,000 Sacks

Thousands of burlap bags were destroyed and a small 1953 truck "badly damaged" in a fire of undetermined origin which broke out late last night in A. Kaplan and Sons bag factory at 20 Jan-sen avenue.

Heaviest damage was in a load of 15,000 bags on the truck, it was reported. A considerable part of the load, which was in bales, was burned.

The truck had been "backed into" the building about 4:30 p. m., the fire department said. A larger truck, also loaded, was driven into the one-and-a-half-story building about 8:30 p. m.

Backs Truck Out
The larger truck was backed out of the building by Fireman Donald Williams after the fire department arrived.

Firemen reported that four employees of the bag factory had left the building about 9 p. m. The department responded to the call at 10:37 p. m.

The fire started and was confined to the one-and-a-half-story section of the building, which is owned by Michael Ambrose, fireman said. Another section of the structure is one-story high.

The fire department reported that the factory contains 100,000 burlap bags.

Responding to the call were Engine 2 from Cornell, Engine 4 from Wicks, with Rapid Hose standing by at Central. The last piece of equipment returned to quarters about 4 a. m. today.

Still Smoldering Today
Deputy Chief James Brett visited the scene about 8 a. m. today to investigate and discovered some of the bags still smoldering.

Engine 1 from Central was dispatched to the scene.

It was reported that Wicks Hose assisted at the fire, later reporting to Central in a standby status on orders of Chief Joseph L. Murphy. Rapid Hose was standing by at Central while equipment was at the bag factory.

At 12:26 a. m. today a false alarm was received from Box 2121 at East Union and Chambers streets. Wicks and Rapid Hose and Engine 3 and Truck 1 from Wiltsyck responded.

Wicks returned to Central, it was reported, and remained on standby duty until about 2:30 a. m.

Extension Is Refused

Panmunjom, Oct. 3 (AP)—The UN command today refused to extend beyond the official Dec. 24 deadline the period in which the allies and Communists may try to change the minds of war prisoners who have refused to go home.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, retiring UN commander, reaffirmed allied opposition to extension of the "explanation" period shortly before he took off for Tokyo after a last inspection tour in Korea. "We cannot be a party to breaking faith with the anti-Communist prisoners of war," he said.

Music to His Ears

Schenectady, Oct. 3 (AP)—Sgt. Gerald Peacock's homecoming from a Korean prison camp was music to his ears. His church gave him a harmonica to replace one the Chinese had taken.

Jailed Labor Czar Power For 20 Years

Once Called Real Force in American Life by Senate President of New Jersey

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—Joseph S. Fay, a big man and handy with his fists, has been for more than 20 years known as a power in that misty backroom world where politics, labor and business sometimes violently collide.

Concentrating his activities in the New York-New Jersey area and making the complex construction industry his particular bee-hive, Fay was hailed and toasted by political leaders long before the public learned his name.

The name spectacularly enough burst into the headlines first in connection with murder. He's back in the headlines now with reports of visits made to him by political and labor leaders.

Started as Delegate
To take things in chronological order.

It was about 1920 that Fay started his union career by becoming a delegate of Local 825 of the AFL International Union of Operating Engineers. Just before getting that post he had come out of Troy following a dispute in which a policeman shot him. Violence walked hand-in-hand with Fay many times afterwards.

His labor activities were mostly New Jersey in those days, and Fay rose to be business agent of the local, a job giving him considerable sway over the men who operate derricks, steam shovels and other construction machinery.

Then Fay branched out and set up in business successfully with construction companies of his own.

Next, Fay in the mid-20's reached for political authority and sought election as Democratic state committeeman for Essex county, N. J. That ended his interest in elective office. Shortly afterward he turned down an invitation to run for the Newark City Commission.

Paltz Assessment Case Is Moved To Albany Court

Ralph Gabrielli, New York attorney who has a home in New Paltz and is seeking to have the assessments in the town reviewed on the grounds the assessors are not assessing at full value as required by the tax law, agreed before Supreme Court Justice Kenneth MacAffer in special term Friday to have the matter adjourned to Albany on October 9 in order to give Peter H. Harp, attorney for the town of New Paltz, time to submit an affidavit of merit.

Gabrielli objected to acceptance of the answer of the respondent on the grounds it was not served in time and also on the further grounds that the answer did not comply with the requirements of the statute in regard to setting forth in the answer certain required facts. He said he would accept the answer if the required facts were set forth in the answer in sufficient detail.

The matter came on under a show cause order in which Harp seeks to compel the petitioner to accept the answer which he admitted had been served a day late.

In arguing the matter before Justice MacAffer, Gabrielli said he had been assessed $11,000 on property in the town and had paid $900 in taxes. Later his assessment was reduced to $5,000 but this year it had been raised again. He said his assessment was as high as that of one of the banks in the town which was "a $200,000 institution."

Charges Irregularities
He also charged irregularities by the chairman of the board of assessors and stated property owned by the chairman of the board was assessed for $1,000 while a loan of $7,000 had been granted on the property which he charged was worth $12,000 to $15,000. Gabrielli said some of the "preferred boys" were given extremely low assessments while he was required to pay on a high assessment. He charged that one assessment was made at about 1.43% of true value of the property and he cited another case where an assessment of $1,400 (Continued on Page 12, Col. 4)

Nothing to Hide, Wicks Tells Dewey

I have just learned of Governor Dewey's statement to the effect that any public official who visits a convicted extortionist owes the public an explanation. I am happy to make a statement concerning my visits to Sing Sing prison to see Joseph Fay.

First, let me say that my visits were open and were known to everyone. They were not secret. I considered it my official duty and also a public service to the people whom I represent to avoid labor troubles.

I visited Fay for the purpose of talking with him concerning labor conditions and impending labor disputes in the counties I represent, namely Ulster, Sullivan, Delaware and Greene. Everyone knows that there have been large public construction projects employing thousands of men in the counties in my district for several years past, including public highways, the Thruway, New York City water works construction and other large building projects.

On numerous occasions there have been threatened strikes and jurisdictional disputes which could have caused lengthy and costly labor troubles or strikes involving millions of dollars in public funds. I wished to avoid any such incidents and thus keep the working people in my senatorial district gainfully and uninterruptedly employed. I am proud to say that there have been no major labor disputes or strikes in these four counties during my term of office.

I never consulted or talked with Joseph Fay about anything else but labor conditions in the counties I represent. I had nothing to hide concerning my visits or talks with Fay. It is public knowledge that, although he is serving a prison term for extortion in connection with labor affairs, he is still a power in labor circles.

I personally resent any implication of wrongdoing on my part. My record speaks for itself.

South Voices 2nd Appeal for Return Of Antique Pumper

Decision Apparently Up to Governor Dewey and Firemen of State

Albany, Oct. 3 (AP)—The south has sent out a second alarm for its prize fire engine.

And it apparently rested with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and veteran New York firefighters whether the ornate pumper would be returned, after 92 years, to Alexandria, Va.

During the Civil War, Union soldiers hauled away the engine as a trophy. It is now on show at the New York Firemen's Home museum in Hudson, 35 miles down the Hudson river from this capital city.

Pleas for return of the relic came yesterday from Gov. John F. Battle of Virginia and Alexandria Mayor Marshall K. Beverley.

They withheld the grapeshot, and banked heavily on a courteous approach to turn the trick with the Yankees.

Beverly wrote last week to Albert J. Foley, chairman of the board of directors of the Firemen's Home at Dunkirk, N. Y., which operates the museum.

Not Legally Bound
To Beverly's appeal, Foley replied that it would be given "serious consideration" but that there was no legal obligation to return the engine.

Beverly then asked Dewey to (Continued on Page 12, Col. 8)

5 Visitors Listed For Fay in Ulster Correction Commissioner Announces Names of Jail Callers

Albany, Oct. 3 (AP)—Edward J. Donovan, state commissioner of correction, released yesterday the list of names he said Sing Sing Prison had recorded as having visited labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay since he entered the prison in 1948. New Yorkers included:

10,000 Expected to Hear Bishop Sheen on Sunday

Final preparations were completed today for Sunday's religious rally at the municipal stadium, where the Most Rev. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen is expected to address at least 10,000 men, women and children of all faiths.

Preliminary will start at 2:30, the program proper at 3 o'clock, and in the event of rain will move to municipal auditorium.

The World Peace Through Prayer program will last an hour and 15 minutes, according to the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church, who said the time limit had been established for the convenience of those who may have to stand for the ceremonies.

Informal that Sunday afternoon's rites probably would attract more than the 8,500 attending last year's Rosary Crusade at the stadium, Police Chief Raymond Van Buren has made plans for a heavy traffic schedule in the uptown area.

None of the seats at the uptown ball park will be reserved. Arrangements at the field will be handled by members of Kingston Council 275, Knights of Columbus.

Bishop Sheen, a Catholic, one of the leading commentators of radio and television, is expected to emphasize the importance of religious vocations in his address. A children's pageant will be presented, with youngsters dressed to represent the various religious communities in the area: Redemptorist priests of Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus. Missionaries of Our Lady of La Salette, Phenicia. Diocesan priests, most parishes in the area. Christian Brothers of Ireland, West Park. Marist Brothers, West Park. Sisters of Christian Charity, St. Peter's, Kingston. Sisters of Charity, St. Mary's, Saugerties. Presentation Sisters, St. Mary's, Kingston. Sisters of St. Ursula Academy and St. Joseph's, Kingston. ## Resents Any Blame for Violations

Dewey Demands Clear Explanation; Albany Speculates on Move for Resignation

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—New York state's capital seethed today with speculation on whether Gov. Dewey will try to force the resignation of acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks for visiting labor extortionist Joseph S. (Joey) Fay in prison.

Wicks declared late yesterday that his calls on Fay in Sing Sing prison were "a public service" to avoid labor troubles in his state senatorial district. The Kingston Republican said "I personally resent any implication of wrongdoing on my part."

The statement was a rapid-fire reply to Dewey's demand for a "complete and satisfactory explanation" of a State Correction Department report that Wicks was one of more than 80 persons who have visited Fay since he was imprisoned in 1948.

The list was dotted with names of persons prominent in political and labor circles in this state and New Jersey.

Some are connected with Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways, harness tracks now the focus of a state investigation launched after cries of labor racketeering.

Dewey-Wicks Cross-fire
The Dewey-Wicks cross-fire stirred queries as to whether Dewey would call for the resignation of the Senate majority leader, who only Thursday also took on the duties of former Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore.

Harry O'Donnell, the governor's press secretary, said Dewey would have no further comment at this time.

The 65-year-old Wicks had been in poor health recently.

Meanwhile, Paul L. Troast, Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey, conceded he wrote a letter in 1951 to Dewey asking executive clemency for Fay. But he said he knew the one-time construction labor boss only as "a business connection and never socially." Troast told a news conference he saw "nothing improper" in the letter.

Fay, former vice president of the AFL International Operating Engineers Union, was convicted in 1945 of extortion and attempting to extort $368,000 from the Delaware Aqueduct project, a link in the New York City water system.

He entered Sing Sing Feb. 23, 1948, for 7½ to 15 years, after having served one year in a New York City jail.

Other New York political figures listed among Fay's visitors included William F. Bleakley, former State Supreme Court justice, and William F. Condon, Republican state senator from Westchester county. Both reside in Yonkers. Also listed was George Morton Levy, who operates Roosevelt Raceway.

Prominent New Jersey personalities listed included William Egan of Newark, chairman of the Essex County Democratic Committee and Fay's lawyer, Democratic Mayor John V. Kenney of Jersey City, John Milton of Jersey City, a former U. S. Senator, and ex-Mayor Meyer Ellenstein of Newark.

Labor Leaders on List

Among the labor leaders appearing on the list made public here by Correction Commissioner Edward J. Donovan were William De Koning Sr., of Hempstead, chief of an AFL union local at Roosevelt raceway; Louis Mar-mante, president of the New Jersey Federation of Labor; Sal Ma-nor, head of the AFL Building Trades Union in New Jersey, and Thomas A. Murray, president of the New York State AFL.

Many of those listed were not available for comment.

Bleakley, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor in 1936, headed the state delegation to the GOP National Convention at Philadelphia in 1948, when Dewey received the presidential nomination a second time. He is general counsel for the Yonkers Trotting Assn., Inc.

The New York Times said it reached Condon by telephone at the Thousand Island Club, near Alexandria Bay. He told the newspaper he never visited Fay personally or on business but accompanied George Meany, now president of the AFL, on a visit a year or so ago. Condon said he was present while Meany spoke to Fay but does not know what they talked about.

President's Board Sits To Clear Dock Strike

Will Give Findings by Monday on Work Tieup of 60,000

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's Board of Inquiry into the east coast dock strike convened here for the first time today in a move to get 60,000 longshoremen back to work.

The board is scheduled to report its findings to the President by Monday night. Then he can seek an anti-strike injunction. The strikers have agreed to obey such an order.

Board members were sworn in by John E. Dietz, of the Washington, D. C., Office of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Then they went into a closed session to determine procedure and a tentative schedule for hearings.

Members of the board are David L. Cole, former director of the service, chairman; the Rev. Dennis J. Conney, S.J., director of St. Joseph's College of Industrial Relations, Philadelphia; and Dr. Harry Carman, former dean of Columbia College.

About 75 pickets boomed and jeered as American Export Line non-longshoremen employees handled lines to aid the docking of the Italian liner Andrea Doria at Pier 84.

Except for the booming, the ship docked without incident. The number of pickets swelled to 250 within an hour after the vessel was berthed.

The waterfront generally was quiet as the strike went into its third day.

Police Protect Leaders

But as the inquiry board convened, police maintained protective guards over rival longshore leaders.

A third development in the tense waterfront crisis was a report that John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers (UMW) had invited into its fold the AFL-ousted International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), which struck porters from Maine to Virginia, in a bid for higher wages. The report could not be confirmed immediately.

The docks were quiet yesterday as an estimated 60,000 dockers were idled by the wage-control dispute between the ILA and the New York Shipping Association (NYSA), representing 170 shipping and stevedoring firms.

FBI Reports Gunmen

Not involved in the contract fight but locked in a bitter struggle with the ILA for control of the waterfront labor is the new International Longshoremen's Association, AFL (ILA-AFL).

The AFL set up this group as a rival to the ILA, which the parent federation expelled for failing to rid its ranks of racketeers.

Local Area Defense Test Set Sunday

Radio Control Will Be Activated at 2 p. m. in City Hall

The Kingston-Ulster Civil Defense Council will participate Sunday afternoon in the seventh annual national simulated emergency test of the American Radio Relay League, it has been announced.

H. W. Bartsch, deputy director of communications for the local Council, told The Freeman today that the radio control station at city hall would be activated beginning at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

To Use Mobile Sets

Five mobile two-way radio receivers and transmitters will also be employed in the test, he pointed out.

Manned by Bartsch and four licensed "ham" operators, the local Council will originate messages from Col. Allen L. Hanstein, director of the Council, and from the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Messages from Hanstein will be sent to Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, state Civil Defense director, and those from the Red Cross chapter will go to the National headquarters of the American Red Cross.

Just for Communications

The test will be similar to that of last week but will involve communications only. Last week all departments were activated in New York city.

Manning the control station at city hall will be John and Arthur Bonse, Charles Costa and John Heitzman, all licensed "ham" operators of Kingston.

Maj. John M. Hiltón of Saugerties, Council director of operations, will be in charge of local Civil Defense message traffic.

Anyone wishing to observe the radio control station in operation should welcome tomorrow afternoon, Bartsch said. The station is located on the first floor of city hall.

Aged Woman Is Raped

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—An 80-year-old woman was raped and robbed early today in her ground floor apartment in Coney Island police reported. The woman, Mrs. Ida Goldstein, was taken to Coney Island Hospital, where her condition was described as critical. She was found by a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Wagner, and a niece, Miss Josephine Wagner, who lives above her in the two-story house.

The Wagner said they heard her sobbing, ran to her room, switched on a light and saw a Negro youth of about 20 dash by them and out of the house.

Lag Is Reported All Over State; Polls Close 10 Tonight

Registration in the city's 20 election districts totaled 2,140 yesterday, the lightest recorded here for several years.

This turnout paralleled a general lag noted by the Associated Press in the upstate area as the first of four personal registration days opened for the area outside of New York City and Westchester county.

Election officials called attention however, to the fact that this is an off-year election and that registration tends to be lighter for that reason.

The total registration yesterday compares with 4,149 for the first day last year, 2,859 for 1951, 2,710 for 1950 and 2,445 for 1949. Voters may also register today and again next week, October 9 and 10. Polls will be open, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. today.

Germans Prefer West

Camp Friedland, Germany, Oct. 3 (AP)—Two hundred German reparations from Russia with homes in the east zone have chosen to start life anew in the West German public, it was disclosed today.

The former prisoners said they made up their minds not to go home when they saw the police rule in East Germany as their train reached Frankfurt-on-Oder. They were among 2,621 German "war criminals" released in the past week.

Music to His Ears

Schenectady, Oct. 3 (AP)—Sgt. Gerald Peacock's homecoming from a Korean prison camp was music to his ears. His church gave him a harmonica to replace one the Chinese had taken.

Returning 'Cowpokes' Given First Big Official Welcome in Woodstock Friday

Woodstock, Oct. 3—A large contingent of distinguished Woodstockers, among them artists, writers and musicians, gathered at the Country Club bridge before noon Friday to give the first of a series of welcomes to the homeward-bound quartet of young people on the final lap of their horseback ride from Texas to Bearsville. Although there had been a small reception Thursday night when the weary travelers pulled into West Shokan, riding four horses and leading three, this was the big welcome and traffic came to a halt at the bridge.

Friends vied with the members of the local and Metropolitan press in flinging a barrage of questions at the four riders, Cayla Hitzig, 17, Nini Galpin, 23, Bruce Whiteley, 16 and Rupert Hitzig, 15. In their well-worn blue jeans, dusty boots and bright plaid shirts, the girls both blonde and radiantly tanned and the boys brown and wearing battered cowboy hats, were a colorful objective for the battery of cameras.

Up at 5 a. m. at the Koritke farm where they had spent the night the cowpokes hit Wittenberg at 8 a. m., and were only a few minutes late for their rendezvous with friends and family at the bridge at noon.

"Oh, it's so nice to be home!" was Cayla's greeting.

Nini introduced the small puppy cuddled on her saddle. "This is Sammy. We found him on the highway in Tennessee and he refused to be abandoned." The pup which appeared to possibly have a bit of beagle ancestry, is now half grown, but when he first joined the pack trip he was so tiny he could be held in the palm of Nini's hand.

The troupe left Austin, Tex., June 13, with eight horses, one of which had to be left in Kentucky because of an injury. They've ridden 2,200 miles, pitched camp many nights in the open, and been royally entertained at motels in Arkansas.

"I can't say enough for the state of Arkansas," said Bruce. "The people there were wonderful."

After the pause at the bridge, it took another hour and a half for the last trek up to the farm of Dr. William Hitzig, Cayla and Rupert's father, in Bearsville. Dr. Hitzig, who came from New York for the celebration, where he is

15,000 Bags Catch Fire At Kaplan's

Fireman Williams Gets Burning Truck Out of Building Holding 100,000 Sacks

Thousands of burlap bags were destroyed and a small 1953 truck "badly damaged" in a fire of undetermined origin which broke out late last night in A. Kaplan and Sons bag factory at 20 Jansen avenue.

Heaviest damage was in a load of 15,000 bags on the truck, it was reported. A considerable part of the load, which was in bales, was burned.

The truck had been "backed in" the building about 4:30 p. m., the fire department said. A larger truck, also loaded, was driven into the one-and-a-half-story building about 8:30 p. m.

The larger truck was backed out of the building by Fireman Donald Williams after the fire department arrived.

Firemen reported that four employees of the bag factory had left the building about 9 p. m. The department responded to the call at 10:37 p. m.

The fire started and was confined to the one-and-a-half-story section of the building, which is owned by Michael Ambrose, fireman said. Another section of the structure is one-story high.

The fire department reported that the factory contains 100,000 burlap bags.

Responding to the call were Engine 2 from Cornell, Engine 4 from Wicks, with Rapid Hose standing by at Central. The last piece of equipment returned to quarters about 4 a. m. today.

Still Smoldering Today

Deputy Chief James Brett visited the scene about 8 a. m. today to investigate and discovered some of the bags still smoldering. Engine 1 from Central was dispatched to the scene.

It was reported that Wicks Hose assisted at the fire, later reporting to Central in a standby status on orders of Chief Joseph L. Murphy. Rapid Hose was standing by at Central while equipment was at the bag factory.

At 12:26 a. m. today a false alarm was received from Box 2121 at East Union and Chambers streets. Wicks and Rapid Hose and Engine 3 and Truck 1 from Wiltwyck responded.

Wicks returned to Central, it was reported, and remained on standby duty until about 2:30 a. m.

Extension Is Refused

Panmunjon, Oct. 3 (AP)—The UN command today refused to extend the official Dec. 24 deadline the period in which allies and Communists may try to change the minds of war prisoners who have refused to go home, Gen. Mark W. Clark, retiring UN commander, reaffirmed allied opposition to extension of the "explanation" period shortly before he took off for Tokyo after a last inspection tour in Korea. "We cannot be a party to breaking faith with the anti-Communist prisoners of war," he said.

Charges Irregularities

He also charged irregularities by the chairman of the board of assessors and stated property owned by the chairman of the board was assessed for $1,000 while a loan of $7,000 had been granted on the property which he charged was worth $12,000 to $15,000.

Gabrielli said some of the "preferred boys" were given extremely low assessments while he was required to pay on a high assessment. He charged that an assessment was made at about 143% of true value of the property and he cited another case where an assessment of $1,400

The matter came on under a show cause order in which Harp seeks to compel the petitioner to accept the answer which he admitted had been served a day late.

In arguing the matter before Justice MacAffer, Gabrielli said he had been assessed $11,000 on property in the town and had paid $900 in taxes. Later his assessment was reduced to $5,000 but this year it had been raised again. He said his assessment was as high as that of one of the banks in the town which was "a $200,000 institution."

Jailed Labor Czar Power For 20 Years

Once Called Real Force in American Life by Senate President of New Jersey

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—Joseph S. Fay, a big man and handy with his fists, has been for more than 20 years known as a power in that misty backroom world where politics, labor and business sometimes violently collide.

Concentrating his activities in the New York-New Jersey area and making the complex construction industry his particular bee-hive, Fay was hailed and toasted by political leaders long before the public learned his name.

The name spectacularly enough burst into the headlines first in connection with murder. He's back in the headlines now with reports of visits made to him by political and labor leaders.

Started as Delegate

To take things in chronological order. . . . It was about 1920 that Fay started his union career by becoming a delegate of Local 825 of the AFL International Union of Operating Engineers. Just before getting that post he had come out of Troy following a dispute in which a policeman shot him. Violence walked hand-in-hand with Fay many times afterwards.

His labor activities were mostly in New Jersey in those days, and Fay rose to be business agent of the local, a job giving him considerable sway over the men who operate derricks, steam shovels and other construction machinery.

Then Fay branched out and set up in business successfully with construction companies of his own.

Next, Fay in the mid-20's reached for political authority and sought election as Democratic state committee man for Essex county, N. J. That ended his interest in elective office. Shortly afterward he turned down an invitation to run for the Newark City Commission.

Paltz Assessment Case Is Moved To Albany Court

Ralph Gabrielli, New York attorney who has a home in New Paltz and is seeking to have the assessments in the town reviewed on the grounds the assessors are not assessing at full value as required by the tax law, agreed before Supreme Court Justice Kenneth MacAffer in special term Friday, to have the matter adjourned to Albany on October 9 in order to give Peter H. Harp, attorney for the town of New Paltz, time to submit an affidavit of merit.

Gabrielli objected to acceptance of the answer of the respondent on the grounds it was not served in time and also on the further grounds that the answer did not comply with the requirements of the statute in regard to setting forth in the answer certain required facts. He said he would accept the answer if the required facts were set forth in the answer in sufficient detail.

The matter came on under a show cause order in which Harp seeks to compel the petitioner to accept the answer which he admitted had been served a day late.

In arguing the matter before Justice MacAffer, Gabrielli said he had been assessed $11,000 on property in the town and had paid $900 in taxes. Later his assessment was reduced to $5,000 but this year it had been raised again. He said his assessment was as high as that of one of the banks in the town which was "a $200,000 institution."

Nothing to Hide, Wicks Tells Dewey

I have just learned of Governor Dewey's statement to the effect that any public official who visits a convicted extortionist owes the public an explanation. I am happy to make a statement concerning my visits to Sing Sing prison to see Joseph Fay.

First, let me say that my visits were open and were known to everyone. They were not secret. I considered it my official duty and also a public service to the people whom I represent to avoid labor troubles.

I visited Fay for the purpose of talking with him concerning labor conditions and impending labor disputes in the counties I represent, namely Ulster, Sullivan, Delaware and Greene. Everyone knows that there have been large public construction projects employing thousands of men in the counties in my district for several years past, including public highways, the Thruway, New York City water works construction and other large building projects.

On numerous occasions there have been threatened strikes and jurisdictional disputes which could have caused lengthy and costly labor troubles or strikes involving millions of dollars in public funds. I wished to avoid any such incidents and thus keep the working people in my senatorial district gainfully and uninterruptedly employed. I am proud to say that there have been no major labor disputes or strikes in these four counties during my term of office.

I never consulted or talked with Joseph Fay about anything else but labor conditions in the counties I represent. I had nothing to hide concerning my visits or talks with Fay. It is public knowledge that, although he is serving a prison term for extortion in connection with labor affairs, he is still a power in labor circles.

I personally resent any implication of wrongdoing on my part. My record speaks for itself.

South Voices 2nd Appeal for Return Of Antique Pumper

Decision Apparently Up to Governor Dewey and Firemen of State

Albany, Oct. 3 (AP)—The south has sent out a second alarm for its prize fire engine.

And it apparently rested with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and veteran New York firefighters whether the ornate pumper would be returned, after 92 years, to Alexandria, Va.

During the Civil War, Union soldiers hauled away the engine as a trophy. It is now on show at the New York Firemen's Home museum in Hudson, 35 miles down the Hudson river from this capital city.

For return of the relic came yesterday from Gov. John F. Battle of Virginia and Alexandria Mayor Marshall K. Beverley.

They withheld the grapeshot, and banked heavily on a courteous approach to turn the trick with the Yankees.

Beverley wrote last week to Albert J. Foley, chairman of the board of directors of the Firemen's Home at Dunkirk, N. Y., which operates the museum.

Not Legally Bound

To Beverley's appeal, Foley replied that it would be given "serious consideration" but that there was no legal obligation to return the engine.

Beverley then asked Dewey to (Continued on Page 12, Col. 8)

5 Visitors Listed For Fay in Ulster Correction Commissioner Announces Names of Jail Callers

Albany, Oct. 3 (AP)—Edward J. Donovan, state commissioner of correction, released yesterday the list of names he said Sing Sing Prison had recorded as having visited labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay since he entered the prison in 1948. New Yorkers included:

Thomas Fay, Port Washington; Arthur Fay, 38 Cambridge avenue, Port Washington; Florence Mullin, 42 Herbert avenue, Port Washington; James Brown, Ellenville; George Frawley, Ellenville; William Dekoning, Sr., Foordmore road, Kerhonkson; Stephen Healey, 14 Fisher Drive, White Plains; William Dekoning, Jr., Front street, Uniondale; Henry McArdie, 335 Powell avenue, Newburgh; John McDonald, 15 Poddington Road, Scarsdale; Roy Gunther, Grahamsville; Edward Davis, Petersburg Farm, Mt. Kisco.

Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston; William F. Bleakley, Yonkers; Bert Truesdell, sheriff, Orange county, Newburgh; William F. Condon, Yonkers; Manning Rodgers, 530 Caarliff avenue, Mamaroneck; Carl Brunett, Spring Valley Road, Ossining.

Other New York political figures listed among Fay's visitors included William F. Bleakley, former State Supreme Court justice, and William F. Condon, Republican state senator from Westchester county. Both reside in Yonkers. Also listed was George Morton Levy, who operates Roosevelt Raceway.

Labor Leaders on List

Among the labor leaders appearing on the list made public here by Correction Commissioner Edward J. Donovan was William De Koning Sr., of Hempstead, chief of an AFL union local at Roosevelt raceway; Louis Mariani, president of the New Maritime Federation of Labor; Sal Maso, head of the AFL Building Trades unions in New Jersey; and Thomas A. Murray, president of the New York State AFL.

Many of those listed were not available for comment.

Bleakley, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor in 1936, headed the state delegation to the GOP National Convention at Philadelphia in 1948. When Dewey received the presidential nomination a second time, he is general counsel for the Yonkers Trotting Assn., Inc.

The New York Times said it reached Condon by telephone at the Thousand Island Club, near Alexandria Bay. He told the newspaper he never visited Fay personally or on business but accompanied George Maso, now president of the AFL, on a visit a year or so ago. Condon said he was present while Maso spoke to Fay but does not know what they talked about.

Final preparations were completed today for Sunday's religious rally at the municipal stadium, where the Most Rev. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen is expected to address at least 10,000 men, women and children of all faiths.

Preliminaries will start at 2:30, the program proper at 3 o'clock, and in the event of rain will move to municipal auditorium.

The World Peace Through Prayer program will last an hour and 15 minutes, according to the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church, who said the time limit had been established for the convenience of those who may have to stand for the ceremonies.

Informing that Sunday afternoon's rites probably would attract more than the 8,500 attending last year's Rosary Crusade at the stadium, Police Chief Raymond Van Buren has made plans for a heavy traffic schedule in the uptown area.

None of the seats at the uptown ball park will be reserved. Arrangements at the field will be handled by members of Kings-

Resents Any Blame for Violations

Dewey Demands Clear Explanation; Albany Speculates on Move for Resignation

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—New York state's capital seethed today with speculation on whether Gov. Dewey will try to force the resignation of acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks for visiting labor extortionist Joseph S. (Joey) Fay in prison.

Wicks declared late yesterday that his calls on Fay in Sing Sing prison were "a public service . . . to avoid labor troubles" in his state senatorial district. The Kingston Republican said "I personally resent any implication of wrongdoing on my part."

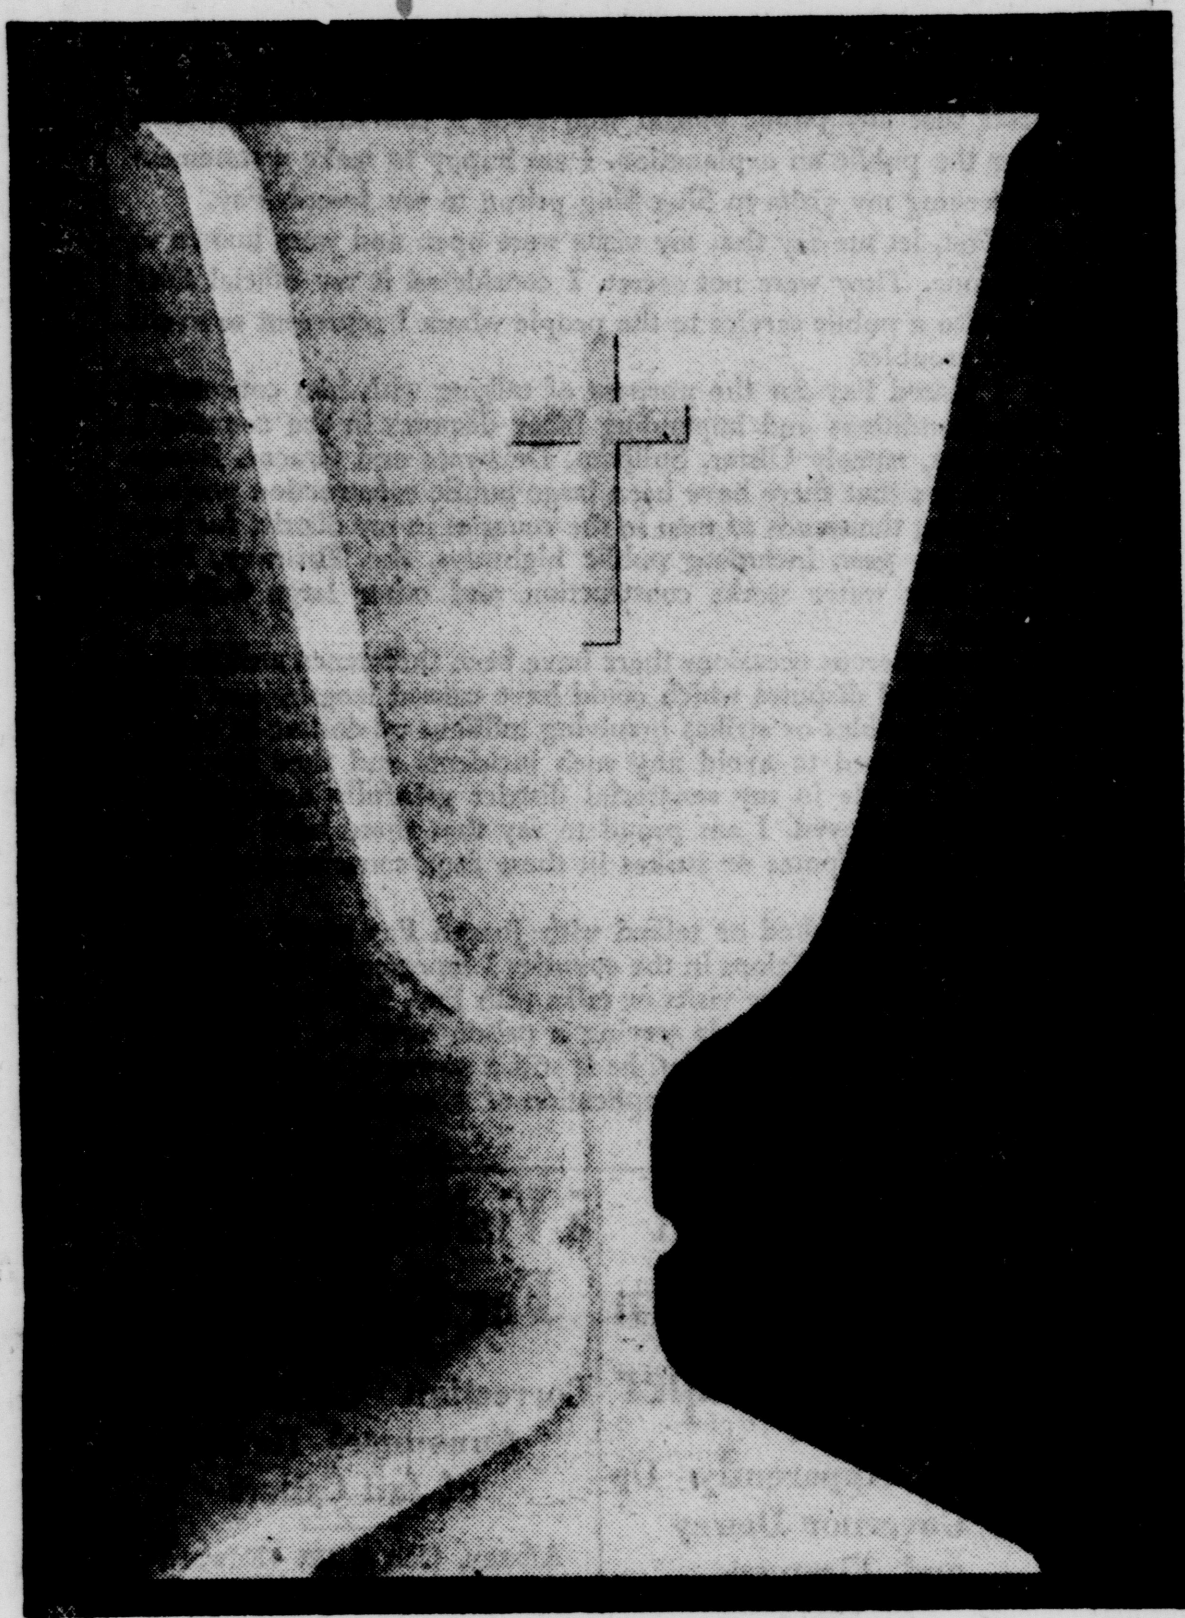

The statement was a rapid-fire reply to Dewey's demand for a "complete and satisfactory explanation" of a State Correction Department report that Wicks was one of more than 80 persons who have visited Fay since he was imprisoned in 1948.

The list was dotted with names of persons prominent in political and labor circles in this state and New Jersey.

Some are connected with Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways, harness tracks now the focus of a state investigation launched after cries of labor racket

Full-Day Program Slated Oct. 12th

Members of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, are making big plans to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of their building on Columbus Day, Monday, Oct. 12.

On Oct. 12, the Knights will attend the 9 a. m. Mass at St. Joseph's Church as a memorial for the deceased members of the Order.

Throughout the day, open house will be held for the Knights and their friends. At 8 p. m. that day, a program has been planned to highlight the anniversary celebration.

Anthony Turk, chairman of the entertainment committee, has reported that he has obtained some outstanding talent for the show which will be followed by dancing from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. to the music of Wendell "Speed" Scherer and his orchestra. Refreshments will be served.

During the evening program, Joseph F. Sullivan and Patrick T. Murphy, past grand knights, will review the history of the Kingston Council while Thomas D. Connelly will act as master of ceremonies. Grand Knight Kenneth T. Clark will welcome the guests.

Started in 1902

A move was started in 1902 to obtain a permanent home for Council 275 and a building fund was set up. With this objective in mind, members continually added to this fund and by the year of 1912 it had grown considerably. When John E. Mahan, past grand knight, assumed office in 1913, he deemed the time wise to bring the building into reality.

Following through, he named a building committee consisting of William D. Cashin, James F. Dwyer, John B. Rafferty, Matthew M. Byrne and James J. O'Connor. When the latter resigned, Thomas J. O'Hara was appointed.

This committee purchased the lot on which the present K. of C. home now stands at the corner of Broadway and Andrew street, and immediately began preparations for the construction of a suitable club house.

Charles Keefe was engaged as the architect and he drew plans and specifications to conform with the committee's sketches.

All members of the Knights, their families and friends are invited to attend the Oct. 12 celebration.

Marbletown School News in Brief

A committee of three faculty members met with Merton Blanchard to discuss a new arrangement for assembly programs this year. The rest of the faculty unanimously voted to try the new schedule they devised which provides an individual program for the primary, intermediate and junior high levels. This rotation plan will be climaxed by a general assembly of the whole school once a month. Miss Joyce Davis, student, has been nominated program chairman for the general assembly programs for the year. She will schedule with the already planned and help to organize a program if needed.

Last week the intermediate grades held their first assembly program. Grades 3, 4 and 5 enjoyed a singing program. They also were entertained by a piano solo. The Skaters' Walz, played by Sally Ruffner and Mary Elizabeth Roesch played a song on the flute entitled Abide With Me. The kindergarten entertained the first graders at a doll show last week. About 50 dolls and teddy bears were in the show.

New Reading Program

The first grades are enjoying a new reading program this year which uses the phonetic system to introduce reading words. This is used in conjunction with the regular reading program and not as an isolated (independent) study. The first book contains vowel sounds and is about Tag, a friendly pup.

The second and third grades are enjoying good attendance.

Fourth Grade won the PTF Banner for having had the highest percentage of parents attending the recent PTF meeting.

Alcoholism Is Nation's Fourth Major Public Health Problem

Because alcoholism is officially recognized as the nation's fourth major public health problem, and since its effects on the victims, families, and communities are so widespread and serious, the Freeman presents an educational series on this disrupting affliction as a community public health service. This is the first article in the series to be run weekly.

This series is not a temperance crusade, nor is it any attempt to invade anyone's private life. It is simply a factual, unbiased attempt to present the truth as known on this grave medical and social problem which merits the attention and understanding of everyone—non-drinkers as well as drinkers.

Prevention begins with understanding. Perhaps you can help someone in need of help.

By AN ALCOHOLIC

There is no such person as a happy drinking alcoholic, nor is there any happiness for anyone whose life is closely associated with such a person.

Of all the miseries to plague man or woman, alcoholism is responsible for more difficulties, disruptions, and disasters than any other medical-social problem. Practically everyone has some knowledge of the shocking effects of alcoholism, but all too few people understand what it is all about.

Since this dreaded affliction may strike any drinker at any time, everyone—non-drinkers as well as drinkers—should have some understanding of this problem—the nation's fourth major public health problem. To prevent anything, one must have some knowledge of that which he would prevent.

Alcoholism can be successfully treated. What is more important to realize is that it can be prevented if detected early enough and prompt treatment measures applied. One never knows when he or she might be in a position to guide and help someone in need of assistance with a serious drinking problem.

According to medical opinion, alcoholism is a progressive affliction characterized by compulsive drinking. It is a condition which develops over an indefinite period of time and progresses from bad to worse. Compulsion, in the medical sense, refers to a form of mental disorder in which an individual is driven to do things against his will or judgment. His behavior is beyond control of his will power. Thus, a person who drinks too much and cannot stop, in spite of serious damage to self and others, is said to be suffering from a drinking compulsion—alcoholism.

It is essential to remember that compulsive behavior is not willed by the victim, not stopped by will power either. The will of an alcoholic is a disordered one, incapable of normal, healthy direction. So, the victim must have outside help if he is to stop drinking permanently—and this must be done if there is to be any hope for recovery.

Of some 65,000,000 users of alcoholic beverages in this country, it is reliably estimated that over 4,000,000 are alcoholic—people whose normal routine areas of living—eating, thinking, sleeping, working and association with others—are being interfered with or disrupted by uncontrolled use of alcohol. Thus, at least one out of every sixteen drinkers is a victim.

The importance of early detection of those drinkers who show signs of loss of control over alcohol cannot be overemphasized. The alcoholic journey is a painful one. To avoid its more painful end will spare untold miseries for victims, families, and communities.

It has been said that "alcohol alone will not make the alcoholic." This seems reasonable, for we note that the majority of drinkers do not become alcoholics. There is no conclusive answer as to why some drinkers become alcoholic while others do not. However, it is quite obvious that excessive and continued use of alcohol, together with certain personality defects or weaknesses are essential for the development of alcoholism.

That the alcoholic does not stop drinking, in spite of the painful experiences associated with his disordered drinking record should be ample evidence that underlying physical or mental disturbances are driving him to drink. No emotionally healthy person does anything to cause suffering to self and others, provided, of course, that he is mentally capable of knowing in advance what will result from a particular action. Yet, this is exactly what the alcoholic does, time and time again.

The alcoholic knows from sad experience what will happen to him if he takes that first drink—once he proves too much and any number not enough. Still, when the compulsion to drink sets in, he can't resist it.

Almost every alcoholic once felt that alcoholism was something which happened to the other fellow only. Certainly, no one assumes such exception to other illnesses of mind or body. When you hear a drinker make the traditional claim: "Oh, that could never happen to me!" the odds are pretty strong that that person is already involved in a drinking problem.

It is generally agreed in medical circles that alcoholism is the symptom of some underlying disease or disorder—as are fever readings or blood pressure abnormalities. For many years, alcoholics have been regarded as moral "no-gooders," lacking in will power and addicted to drink because of a weakness of character. They have been preached to, scorned, punished, and ridiculed, as though any of these measures have ever been effective in treating any ill person.

Too many persons are inclined to believe that alcoholics are such only when drinking. However, it is apparent that the alcoholic is sadly out of step with the world about him even when not drinking. He's most confused when sober, and hopelessly confused when drinking.

It is reported that at least one out of every five known alcoholics is a woman. This ratio would, undoubtedly be much higher were it not for the all-out effort to protect the woman victim from the social branding traditionally attached to women alcoholics. This is grossly unfair, of course, if we accept alcoholism as an illness. Illness is no respecter of sex, and alcoholism is no exception.

The U. S. Public Health Service defines a public health problem as a "disease which is so widespread in a population, so serious in its effects, so costly in its treatment, that the individual left unaided cannot deal with it himself." This is why this agency ranks alcoholism as the nation's fourth major public health problem. This is why, as such, it merits the attention and concern of everyone.

The tell-tale signs of a drinker's loss of control soon make themselves evident. When detected, the danger signal is flashing and it's time to do something about it quickly.

Vest-Pocket Calculator

Mathematical tables have been published to enable appraisers to figure quickly and accurately the cubic content of a house. A New York city financing institution which first offered such a vest-pocket calculator free of charge to appraisers in 1946 recently has had to reprint the booklet to meet a heavy demand in the metropolitan area.

Full-Day Program Slated Oct. 12th

Members of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, are making big plans to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of their building on Columbus Day, Monday, Oct. 12.

On Oct. 12, the Knights will attend the 9 a. m. Mass at St. Joseph's Church as a memorial for the deceased members of the Order.

Throughout the day, open house will be held for the Knights and their friends. At 8 p. m. that day, a program has been planned to highlight the anniversary celebration.

Anthony Turk, chairman of the entertainment committee, has reported that he has obtained some outstanding talent for the show which will be followed by dancing from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. to the music of Wendell "Speed" Scherer and his orchestra. Refreshments will be served. During the evening program, Joseph F. Sullivan and Patrick T. Murphy, past grand knights, will review the history of Kingston Council while Thomas D. Connelly will act as master of ceremonies. Grand Knight Kenneth T. Clark will welcome the guests.

Started in 1902 to obtain a permanent home for Council 275 and a building fund was set up. With this objective in mind, members continually added to this fund and by the year of 1912 it had grown considerably. When John E. Mahar, past grand knight, assumed office in that year he deemed the time ripe to bring the building into reality. Following through, he named a building committee consisting of William D. Cashin, James F. Dwyer, John B. Rafferty, Matthew M. Byrne and James J. O'Connor. When the latter resigned, Thomas J. O'Hara was appointed.

This committee purchased the lot on which the present K. of C. home now stands at the corner of Broadway and Andrew street, and immediately began preparations for the construction of a suitable club house. Charles Keefe was engaged as the architect and he drew plans and specifications to conform with the committee's sketches. All members of the Knights, their families and friends are invited to attend the Oct. 12 celebration.

Alcoholism Is Nation's Fourth Major Public Health Problem

Because alcoholism is officially recognized as the nation's fourth major public health problem, and since its effects on the victims, families, and communities are so widespread and serious, The Freeman presents an educational series on this disrupting affliction as a community public health service. This is the first article in the series to be run weekly.

This series is not a temperance crusade, nor is it an attempt to invade anyone's private life, it is simply a factual, unbiased attempt to present the truth as known on this grave medical and social problem which merits the attention and understanding of everyone—non-drinkers as well as drinkers.

Prevention begins with understanding. Perhaps you can help someone in need of help.

By AN ALCOHOLIC

There is no such person as a happy drinking alcoholic, nor is there any happiness for anyone whose life is closely associated with such a person.

Of all the miseries to plague man or woman, alcoholism is responsible for more difficulties, disasters, and disasters than any other medical-social problem. Practically everyone has some knowledge of the shocking effects of alcoholism, but all too few people understand what it is all about.

Since this dreaded affliction may strike any drinker at any time, even non-drinkers as well as drinkers—should have some understanding of this problem—the nation's fourth major public health problem. To prevent anything, one must have some knowledge of that which he would prevent.

Alcoholism can be successfully treated. What is more important to realize is that it can be prevented if detected early enough and prompt treatment measures applied. One never knows when he or she might be in a position to guide and help someone in need of assistance with a serious drinking problem.

According to medical opinion, alcoholism is a progressive affliction characterized by compulsive drinking. It is a condition which develops over an indefinite period of time and progresses from bad to worse. Compulsion, in the medical sense, refers to a form of mental disorder in which an individual is driven to do things against his will or judgment. His behavior is beyond control of his will power. Thus, a person who drinks too much and cannot stop, in spite of serious damage to self and others, is said to be suffering from a drinking compulsion—alcoholism.

It is essential to remember that compulsive behavior is not willed by the victim, not stopped by will power either. The will of an alcoholic is a disordered one, incapable of normal, healthy direction. So, the victim must have outside help if he is to stop drinking permanently—and this must be done if there is to be any hope for recovery.

Of some 65,000,000 users of alcoholic beverages in this country, it is reliably estimated that over 4,000,000 are alcoholic—people whose normal routine areas of living—eating, thinking, sleeping, working and association with others—are being interfered with or disrupted by uncontrolled use of alcohol. Thus, at least one out of every sixteen drinkers is a victim.

The importance of early detection of those drinkers who show signs of loss of control over alcohol cannot be overemphasized. The alcoholic journey is a painful one. To avoid its more painful end will spare untold miseries for victims, families, and communities.

It has been said that "alcohol alone will not make the alcoholic." This seems reasonable, for we note that the majority of drinkers do not become alcoholics. There is no conclusive answer as to why some drinkers become alcoholic while others do not. However, it is quite obvious that excessive and continued use of alcohol, together with certain personality defects or weaknesses are essential for the development of alcoholism.

That the alcoholic does not stop drinking, in spite of the painful experiences associated with his disordered drinking record should be ample evidence that underlying physical or mental disturbances are driving him to drink. No emotionally healthy person does anything to cause suffering to self and others, provided, of course, that he is mentally capable of knowing in advance what will result from a particular action. Yet, this is exactly what the alcoholic does, time and time again.

The alcoholic knows from sad experience what will happen once he takes that first drink—one will prove too much and any number not enough. Still, when the compulsion to drink sets in, he can't resist it.

Almost every alcoholic once felt that alcoholism was something which happened to the other fellow only. Certainly, no one assumes such exception to other illnesses of mind or body. When you hear a drinker make the traditional claim: "Oh, that could never happen to me!" the odds are pretty strong that that person is already involved in a drinking problem.

It is generally agreed in medical circles that alcoholism is the symptom of some underlying disease or disorder—as are fever readings or blood pressure abnormalities. For many years, alcoholics have been regarded as moral "no-gooders," lacking in will power and addicted to drink because of a weakness of character. They have been preached to, scorned, punished, and ridiculed, as though any of these measures have ever been effective in treating any ill person.

Too many persons are inclined to believe that alcoholics are such only when drinking. However, it is apparent that the alcoholic is sadly out of step with the world about him—even when not drinking. He's most confused when sober, and hopelessly confused when drinking.

It is reported that at least one out of every five known alcoholics is a woman. This ratio would, undoubtedly be much higher were it not for the all-out effort to protect the woman victim from the social branding traditionally attached to women alcoholics. This is grossly unfair, of course, if we accept alcoholism as an illness. Illness is no respecter of sex, and alcoholism is no exception.

The U. S. Public Health Service defines a public health problem as a "disease which is so widespread in a population, so serious in its effects, so costly in its treatment, that the individual left unaided cannot deal with it himself." This is why this agency ranks alcoholism as the nation's fourth major public health problem. This is why, as such, it merits the attention and concern of everyone.

The tell-tale signs of a drinker's loss of control soon make themselves evident. When detected, the danger signal is flashing and it's time to do something about it quickly.

Vest-Pocket Calculator

Mathematical tables have been published to enable appraisers to figure quickly and accurately the cubic content of a house. A New York city financing institution which first offered such a vest-pocket calculator free of charge to appraisers in 1946 recently has had to reprint the booklet to meet a heavy demand in the metropolitan area.

NOT LOADED BUT FATAL

Too many lovely little girls and jolly little boys have been killed in the last year by little brothers or sisters. The parents thought the gun was not loaded. The children were merely playing a game. They pointed the gun, pulled the trigger and were completely bewildered by the result. The parents are now full of grief. The children are grief-stricken, too, if they know what has happened. If they are still too small to understand it, the day will come when they will. The results of that knowledge on the growing minds will be very sad and hard to cure.

Two means of prevention should be taken seriously by all parents.

First, dangerous weapons must be kept beyond the reach of children. They are not toys. They are perils. Any home which has a gun should have a parent who sees to it that it really is unloaded and kept out of reach.

Second, children should be taught from infancy never to point a weapon at another human being. The toy water pistol, the crossed stick pretending to be a sword look harmless but are not. Children who acquire the habit of aiming them at people, tall or small, are acquiring a dangerous attitude. If television suggests this as suitable play, turn off that program. There are better ones. Let children shoot at targets, punch balls, bat balls against windowless walls and fences. But let them not—not ever—aim at people.

Big soldiers never aim at comrades. Real ranchers don't. Let the small fry learn that. With the air full of war it's harder. But it can be taught.

There are many games and activities which are harmless or result, at worst, in unimportant bruises or bumps. There are contests of skill and endurance which make children brave and strong. Let them play at those. But not at aiming weapons at people. Some day it might be an arrow—sharp. Or a gun—loaded.

WHAT KIND OF KITCHEN?

Fads are funny. The revulsion from the dark and unpleasant kitchens of the Victorian age was to small, all-white kitchens, glaring with big lights and looking like hospital operating rooms. Then came the era of bright colors, red, blue or green in curtains, dishes, sometimes walls, to set off the white appliances. A trend to pastel colors in appliances appears sporadically, but white is practical and the white stove bought from one firm does not fight with the icebox from another.

Then came the tiny house with its dinette shut off by a mere half wall from the cooking area. Now we come full circle back to the big kitchen, "the one you can live in," home columns call it, with easy chairs and rag rugs and all the comforts of home—except the comfort of the small efficient working room for the housewife.

So many kinds of kitchens are available that the home planner can have any kind she wants—but a little imagination and common sense will help her to choose one she will not tire of soon. Good windows well placed mean much. She will find good tiles or painted walls better than wood or masonry. Putting all tools out of sight looks efficient but isn't. Let the housewife and her good man take time to think it all out. What do they really want in a kitchen?

PASSING BAYS

One way to reduce traffic accidents is to build more "passing bays." On long hills and narrow roads these bays would give slow-moving cars and trucks a chance to pull aside and let faster traffic go through.

This suggestion is made by Dr. Herbert J. Stack, who has charge of safety education for New York University. He has seen many a driver, fuming at the slow progress uphill of the heavy truck ahead, dart into the path of a car rushing down. If there were some bay-pass which the truck could take, the ensuing accident need not have happened.

Building these passing bays is a great deal

THE SPANISH AGREEMENT

In the period when a distinction was made between good and bad dictators, a world-wide propaganda was accelerated by Russia and the Communist agencies throughout the world against Spain. Of all countries, Spain was categorized as the worst and Franco was made the symbol of all that is wrong in government.

The propaganda was so effective that Spain became the pariah among nations and Franco an outcast. This attitude did not weaken Franco among his own people. He managed to survive the isolation. And Spain managed to continue to exist.

With our experience with Stalin, Mankov, Tito and all the other masters of men, the light dawned that Franco surely is no worse than these others and that Spain is needed by the United States as an ally. For 17 months the United States conducted negotiations with Spain for air and naval bases and an agreement was finally consummated last week by which the United States gets the bases and Spain gets $226,000,000 which had already been granted and not yet delivered.

This transaction has been soundly arranged, perhaps because no emotional factors of friendship were involved. There was a quid pro quo and a meeting of the minds, as the lawyers say. It is the application of intelligent self-interest on both sides and is expected to last for 10 years.

The Iberian peninsula is one of the principal gateways to the continent of Europe. From the standpoint of logistics in the present situation, which has as its target Soviet Russia, it is a more secure gateway than any in northwestern Europe because it might survive a speedy Russian thrust.

Should either Great Britain or France become neutralist, our peril will not be so great once our bases in Spain and North Africa are fully developed. The agitation of Clement Attlee and Aneurin Bevan to make Great Britain neutralist has been launched with full vigor as part of an election campaign for the British Labor Party to unseat Sir Winston Churchill, whose situation is becoming difficult because of his waning health and the general anti-Americanism which is developing in his country.

This anti-Americanism needs to be correctly appraised in this country. The British people realize that in a war between the United States and Soviet Russia, their islands would be like sitting ducks. They have been bombed in two wars and they know what it means in deaths, in broken homes and in the destruction of property.

There is little use repeating the American arguments, that we got into this mess because we hoped to save Britain, first from the Kaiser and then from Hitler; that we have expended vast sums of our wealth and sons; that we assisted Great Britain magnificently after each war.

The British people counter by saying that they stood for 12 months alone, taking the most terrifying bombing, and that they want no more of it, if they can help it. Simply stated—they do not want another war and most of them believe that it is American stiff-neckedness which is making a compromise impossible. In addition, the British believe that they can free themselves from economic dependence upon the United States if East-West trade is permitted to flourish unhampered by American restrictions.

It is possible to say that the British do not like the Russians or the Chinese Communists any more than we do, but they take the position that nations do not live by general moral principles but by the facts of life, as unpleasant as they may be. They are prepared to cut their losses.

This attitude is so general in Great Britain that it becomes difficult for a politician there to hold his own against it. Therefore, the United States must assume that allies are needed elsewhere. Greece, any Turkey stand firm; Iran is likely to be rehabilitated as an American ally; the Arab states will probably move into our orbit; Spain is with us.

Thus, a stepping stone defense is being organized in southern Europe, in the Mediterranean and in the Middle East, supported by bases in North Africa. This bastion could be made effective with the unconventional weapons at our disposal.

Bluntly stated, our defense in the Atlantic and the Pacific will be most effective if kept distant from continental United States. And if our defenses are strong, there may be no war.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATING NEUROSIS BY CARBON DIOXIDE

A neurosis is thinking you have an ailment when no ailment is present; perhaps the commonest neurosis is thinking you have a heart ailment (cardiac neurosis).

We can readily understand that when a patient thinks he has some disease—heart, liver, kidney, high blood pressure, diabetes—he has to be shown that this disease is not present, shown how his nerves can actually cause the same symptoms as the disease which he thinks is present. He must also be shown that if this disease were really present, he would not only have the symptoms of which he complains but would have other symptoms, also.

The first part of the treatment then is that the physician makes a careful examination and makes the usual tests of the disease suspected by the patient and he points out why the suspected disease is not present. This may require several interviews during which time the physician can give the necessary assurance that will calm the fears of the patient.

In his book, Office Psychiatry, Dr. Louis G. Moeck, Assistant Professor of Medicine and of Psychiatry, University of Utah School of Medicine, states that the neuroses are the most prevalent of all ills. Few people are perfectly adjusted to all spheres of relationships with themselves and with others. Most of us live normal lives in adjusting ourselves to others while suffering various periods of frustration and unhappiness. "The neurosis represents an inability to make a satisfactory response to certain stressful situations, either within ourselves or between ourselves and others in the outside world."

For the past few years, in addition to giving a thorough examination and showing that no disease is present, shock treatments (insulin, metrazol, or electric) have been used successfully to help straighten out the patient's mind and help him to cooperate more fully with the physician.

In the Journal of Clinical and Experimental Psychopathology (mind disturbances) Dr. J. D. Moriarty reports his experience over a three-year period of 6200 carbon dioxide inhalations given to 213 patients with various psychoses. Using an anesthesiologist's gas machine, Dr. Moriarty administered a mixture of 30 per cent carbon dioxide and 70 per cent oxygen. This permits the patient to reach a deep level of anesthesia usually after 25 to 40 respirations. The mask is then removed within 40 to 60 seconds afterwards. The whole inhalation procedure may be administered within 5 to 6 minutes. In a series of cases, particularly the "anxiety" group, about 40 per cent were much improved; 43 per cent were improved; and 18 per cent not improved.

Simply breathing in a few breaths of air rich in carbon dioxide is certainly a simple method of obtaining such successful results in neurosis, our commonest mental disturbance.

"Okay, Let's Swap!"

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

Washington, (NEA)—The biggest bug which Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield sees ahead in his mail experiment is the holiday situation.

His idea is that unused space on the airlines might prove to be a cheap way to transport ordinary first-class mail. The rate he has set for the test is roughly what it costs the trains to carry it.

But the trouble is that on holidays the mail load is heaviest. And at the same time the airlines have fewer vacant seats. Thus when the post office needs most help in carrying the mail, this means of transportation becomes least available. However, post office experts don't think this problem will be serious enough to kill the idea.

French Bomb Disposal
Bomb disposal work is still a major French headache. Its Bomb Removal Service continues to pick up about 30,000 unexploded bombs and shells per month from all over the country. And they keep finding some from World War I and even the Franco-Prussian War of 1870.

In the past eight years 523 men working for the BRS have been killed and 825 wounded.

Hungary Gravedigger
A gravedigger, who escaped from Hungary last May, has reported to the National Committee for a Free Europe that only three types of funerals are now permitted in Communist Hungary. If you're a real party functionary you can spend $140 for a big whing-ding. The middle class and the peasants have to be satisfied with a $100 or $50 ceremony. However, all the coffins are identical—made of the cheapest woods and sell for $13 a copy. He also tells how mortuary employees have to attend political classes after work. Trustworthy graduates get the privilege of burying victims who are shot by the border patrol while trying to escape from Hungary. The victims are buried at night on the outskirts of towns in unmarked graves.

Dean Memorial Fund
Gen. William Dean, recently released from a Communist prisoner-of-war camp, is one of the few living men who already has a large memorial fund set up in his behalf.

It was created by a military society of Korean veterans. The organization was formed before the fighting broke out there and consisted of men who had served on the peninsula in some advisory capacity. When Dean was announced missing, and presumed dead, the first thing the society did was to create a Dean Memorial Fund.

Several thousand dollars were collected before the Army reported that he might be alive. They've decided to wait now until after Dean lives his normal life before spending the money.

Youth Propaganda
The government's psychological warfare and propaganda experts have turned their attention to the youth of the world this summer. They've suddenly taken note of the success the Communists have had with their many "youth festivals" held in the various Iron Curtain countries.

At the recent Fourth World Festival of Youth and Students for Peace and Friendship held in Romania, for instance, a mob of teen-agers from 106 countries showed up. Included were kids from the U. S.-managed Pacific islands. They were constantly harangued with the party line during the festival, which was the purpose of the event, but they also seemed to have some fun. The U. S. may find some sponsor for similar festivals in the U. S. next summer or help finance several in the democratic countries in Europe.

Hats All Year 'Round
When Mrs. Robert Leeds, attorney, was sworn in as Assistant Commissioner of Patents recently, the men on hand did a double-take.

The Commerce Department's new career gal was wearing a chapeau right out of the Arabian Nights: a black pill box with two long lacquered quills swooping down under her chin and two white feathers curling straight up in mid-air on top of the hat creation. She designed it herself plus 4 others in her collection.

Mrs. Leeds, whose husband owns the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall in Atlantic City, claims her hats know no season. She wears straws in the winter and feathers in the summer. It all depends on the costume worn.

So They Say...

I'd like to explain the reason my husband was so drunk last night. You see, my mother had just had her twentieth baby and we thought it was an occasion to celebrate.

—Mrs. Jan Czajkowski defends her husband in a London, Eng., court.

Just say we're friends of the family.

—Bodyguards for Rita Hayworth's children, refusing to make their identity known.

No single weapon will solve the military problems of western defense or deter aggression.

—Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Charlotte E. Trantwein of 91 Chestnut street, Manchester, Conn., wrote in to Card's Drug Store, Port Ewen, asking about navy picture cards which were printed around 1909. Emily Card showed me the note and the best we could think of was that perhaps it was from a group of postal cards put out during the Hudson-Fulton Celebration of 1909. I have seen some of those cards, although do not own any. There was quite a naval display on the Hudson river and many colored and plain postal cards were made from them. Some people still own complete sets.

To me, it is an art, just to grow an ordinary flower, not alone prize ones, like the mammoth colored dahlias Miss Fannie Levy of 29 Staples street grows. She brought some down to the Rondout Savings Bank. One was a bright yellow, which she named Atomic Yellow. One of the girls at the bank measured them across and they go better than 10 inches. Miss Levy said that they need lots of water, and this run of dry weather prevented them from really spreading out as they should. Miss Levy knows I am proud of Rondout and all its achievements which I list from time to time, so she said to mention that these most beautiful flowers are grown in what is known as the Rondout section of the town. I know that some of the most beautiful gardens are on this side of the City Hall or West Shore division of Kingston. Presidents place, when Alex Stern, the physician lived there in his big white house, spent much time in thought on his gardens overlooking much of Rondout and the Rondout bridge and creek.

He was always happy to show anyone around and tell about his flowers. It was not long ago that I had a chance to admire the artistic hillside gardens the folks on Hudson street have.

The first time I paid any attention to the dahlia flower was when the late Walter H. Ostrander of 28 Oak street used to display them in front of his clothing store at the head of Wall street on North Front street. He told me he had only a small patch of land, home, where he grew them, but he had the knack of producing these magnificent flowers in that little patch. When he displayed his flowers in front of his door, passersby would stop and admire them, and he was always glad to tell about them. For many years I used to meet Walt and his wife, Flora Ostrander, at the Eastern Star gatherings. Both of them were always so jolly and pleasant, that after the meeting when refreshments were served I always liked to sit near them to chat. I certainly was sorry to hear of his death.

The mention of the Hood family tree in this column the other day brought some interesting response from up the state. One lady gave me some clues and dates. It seems there is a book called Olde Families of Ulster County at the Senate House Library. She tells also about another book which covers the old cemeteries giving location and list of people buried in them. Mr. Hood of Medford, Ore., is especially interested in mention of Hood, or any odd spelling of it like Hoed, or Hoet, etc., appearing in records about 1709-1712.

Napanoch Institution

To View Selected TV

The Napanoch Institution will become one of the first in the state to use television for educational purposes. It was pointed out by Major Thomas J. Hanlon, superintendent, as he signed a contract with Norman Tennenbaum, president of Ulster County Trans-Video of Ellenville, for the wired television service offered by the company. He stressed that the inmates will be given the opportunity of viewing selected programs, such as lectures, news, sports, special events and others that are regarded as character building in nature. Major Hanlon explained that one set has been given to the institution by Nicholas Glauquito, Long Island contractor, who also will meet part of the wired television installation costs.

Institution employees and others, Major Hanlon said, will provide at least a second set and installation and meet the monthly rental charges of the Trans-Video line. The first set is expected to be installed in the chapel and the second in the armory. Trans-Video, Mr. Tennenbaum explained, expects to be stringing its lines from Ellenville to Napanoch along the Berne road and over the institution property in the immediate future.

She Resigns at 78

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Mary T. Norton, former trail-blazing congresswoman from New Jersey, last night announced her resignation as a member of the Democratic national committee. Mrs. Norton told 200 delegates to a meeting of the Democratic Women of New Jersey, "when a woman gets to be 78 years old, she has reached a time when she should resign." Mrs. Norton served in Congress from 1924 to 1930, representing what is now the 13th District in Hudson county. She was the first Democratic congresswoman and the first woman ever to head a congressional committee—the House Labor Committee.

Moran reportedly gave his age and presumably gave his reasons for quitting the non-salaried transit post. Moran is chairman of the board of the Moran Towing & Transportation Co.

Reason and Avoid Boner Bridge Plays

In today's hand there were two ways to defend properly and two ways to let declarer make the hand. East found one of the wrong ways and later admitted that his second choice would have been the other wrong way.

West opened his singleton club, and East won with the king. He continued with the ace of clubs and then led a third club, hoping that his partner could over-ruff declarer.

South could have made 10 tricks by ruffing with the seven or eight, but he decided to play only for his contract, hoping to find a 3-2 trump break. Hence South ruffed with the queen of hearts, drew trumps with the ace and king of hearts, and gave up a heart trick to East's jack.

Now nothing could stop declarer from getting to dummy with the ace of diamonds to discard two losers on dummy's good clubs.

"I almost led back a spade at the second trick," East admitted when the hand was over. If he had done so, declarer would have made 11 tricks by putting up the ace of spades, drawing trumps, and overruffing the jack of clubs with dummy's queen.

East had two ways to defeat the contract after he had won the first trick with the king of clubs. He could return a diamond, knocking out dummy's ace before the clubs could be set up; or he could return a low club, allowing his partner to ruff.

How was East to know? It was just a matter of thinking about the bidding and about the opening lead.

West had overcalled in spades and had rebid the suit freely. Hence West had a good spade suit and a hand of fair strength. Nevertheless, he had opened clubs rather than his own suit.

The spades could not be solid, or West would have led the high spade to look at the dummy before planning the rest of the defense. With a non-solid spade suit, West needed some sort of side strength for his two bids.

There was that side strength? Obviously not in clubs. It couldn't be in the trump suit, since South needed his actual trump holding for his three bids in an unraised suit. Hence West was marked with side strength in diamonds. Once East worked this fact out it would be a cinch to pick one of the correct defenses.

Would Punish War Crimes

Rome, Oct. 3 (AP)—Pope Pius XII urged the nations of the world today to adopt a code of international law that would punish crimes having international consequences. Chief among these, he said, would be an unjust war. The Pope spoke to delegates from more than a score of countries, gathered in Rome for the sixth International Congress of Criminal Law. He received them in special audience at his Castel Grandolfo summer residence. The Pope said "even in just war—that is, in a war of defense—not all means (of war) are acceptable."

United Front Threatened

United Nations, Oct. 3 (AP)—Growing differences between the United States and its allies in Korea today threatened their united front on major questions in the UN Assembly. Some delegates said the issues must be ironed out before further UN consideration of world problems. None of the differences involve basic aims—all the allies want an honorable peace. The issues have arisen because the nations have not decided to the satisfaction of all how they should go about reaching that goal.

Special Judge Harry Gold set trial for October 15. A charge of third degree assault against Garfield Jeffries of 12 Kingsburg avenue was dismissed this morning when the plaintiff failed to appear. ### Youth Still Missing

Kansas City, Oct. 3 (AP)—What is the fate of 6-year-old Bobby Greenleaf? This is the sixth day since the boy, son of wealthy automobile dealer Robert C. Greenleaf, was kidnapped from the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion, a private Catholic school. Yet his disappearance and its ramifications have become even more puzzling daily with rumors and numerous tips adding to the complexity of the case.

Eight per cent more cattle were on feed for market in the 11 corn belt states last July first than on the same date in 1952.

Called on Fay

the State Senate Labor Committee.

Meany's name was not on the Fay visiting list announced yesterday by the State Correction Department and he was not available for comment.

Levy, managing director and counsel for Roosevelt Raceway said he visited Fay "a couple of times a couple of years ago." He said he was asked to do so by Thomas R. Fay, the prisoner's brother.

Levy said both he and Thomas Fay were attorneys and "lifetime friends" and that Thomas asked him to go to Sing Sing to discuss with Joseph legal technicalities in this case.

Kenny said he visited Fay in Sing Sing but did not go there for that purpose. Kenny said he went with a friend who suggested the visit.

Believed Fay Had Power
Wicks said he believed Fay had enough power to exert influence from behind prison walls on the settlement of inter-union disputes. The legislator said he did not know whether the shake-down artist actually had intervened in any threatened labor disturbances on such projects as the aqueduct, the State Thruway and other highway jobs.

"I visited Fay on several occasions with relations to labor situations in my district because I thought Fay would be helpful," Wicks told newsmen. He added that "we never had a strike" and that "the jurisdictional disputes were always settled."

Dewey noted that hundreds of requests for clemency and for release on parole had been received in Fay's behalf. "It is significant that though Fay was eligible for parole last February, it was denied and he may not even apply again until 1955," the governor added.

"I thoroughly disprove of any public officer calling upon a convicted extortionist, except in the course of his official duties. Public officials who have visited Fay owe the people a complete and satisfactory explanation of their visits."

Open and Known to All

Wicks replied in a statement that his visits "were open and were known to everyone." He said that he had "never consulted or talked with Joseph Fay about anything else but labor conditions in the counties I represent," and added "my record speaks for itself."

"It is public knowledge that although Fay is serving a prison term for extortion in connection with labor affairs, he is still a power in labor circles," Wicks stated.

In Newark, Troast called a news conference shortly after his headquarters had released the text of his letter to Dewey regarding commutation of Fay's sentence. In the letter, Troast described Fay as "at all times completely cooperative" in labor matters.

Troast was chairman of the New Jersey Turnpike Authority at the time he wrote the letter, but did not sign it in that capacity.

The gubernatorial candidate told newsmen he had known Fay since 1928 because he (Troast) headed a construction business and Fay was the "elected representative of the Building Trades Department of the AFL in New Jersey."

When labor leaders informed him Fay's application for clemency was being filed and asked his aid, Troast said, he inquired whether Fay was eligible and was told he was. "On my own volition with no pressure from anyone, as president of the Mahoney-Troast Construction Co., I wrote the letter," Troast said.

He added "that was the only time I wrote and at that time I was happy to." Moreover, Troast said "I did what I considered right at the time."

Troast said he had not seen Fay since he entered prison. Even as the Troast letter was being released, Robert B. Meyner, his Democratic opponent in the gubernatorial race, issued a statement saying:

"It is shocking to learn that the man who seeks the highest position of trust in New Jersey should try to use influence with the Republican governor of another state to free a racketeer."

Troast Appealed to Dewey

The New York World-Telegram and the Sun had reported earlier that Troast once had appealed to Dewey regarding Fay.

The newspaper went on to say that "Fay has slowly emerged as a behind-the-scenes power, a man with admittedly a close relationship with William De Koning, the AFL labor czar of Long Island."

A William De Koning and his wife, Rose, are listed as holders of 350 shares of stock in the Yonkers Trotting Assn., Inc., which operates Yonkers Raceway.

David Holman, attorney for De Koning's local of the AFL Building Service Employees Union, has denied that members employed at Roosevelt Raceway were "shaken out." However, he has said workers at the track paid $6 a head for admission to what he described as "Friday night socials" at the Labor Lyceum, a hall in Unionville, L. I., owned by De Koning.

Regarding the list released by his department, Commissioner Donovan said visitors to Sing Sing were not asked to give the purpose of their visits. No record was kept of their interviews with inmates. The list covered all Fay's visitors since he was admitted.

Donovan added Fay was given no special privileges at Sing Sing. Wicks, a member of the Senate since 1927, was plugged in his own 34th District for the gubernatorial nomination in 1950. The district includes Ulster, Greene, Sullivan and Delaware counties.

One of his jobs as senator has been the chairmanship of a legislative committee conducting a study of running and harness track operations in the state.

Under the State Constitution, he assumed the job of lieutenant governor when Moore resigned.

East Germans Defy Red Threats, Go West for Food

Despite new, more severe measures just announced by East German Communist officials against East Germans who come into the West zone for free food, thousands continue to risk their lives to receive food parcels distributed by the American Free Food Relief Program. Even the "Peoples Police," ordered to stop the hungry hordes and to confiscate any food parcels, not only neglect their job, but also slip across to get food themselves. Allied officials report that almost 5,000,000 "Eisenhower" parcels have been distributed in spite of the Communist ban, proving that the police deliberately lay down on the job. This, along with the uprising of East German workers in June, and the hundreds who seek political asylum in the Western zone, cause the Soviet masters countless headaches.

Returning

October blue and the temperature perfect. As was noted the night before in West Shokan, the veteran cow-hands' first concern was for their ponies, who had known only the ranges of central Texas. They headed first for the barn and the rich green pasture to the rear where saddles and packs were quickly removed and animals turned loose to graze. Obviously none of them found anything wrong with Bearsville grass. "Let's see how you pitched camp," someone asked and while lunch awaited they obligingly pulled sleeping bags from the pack, perched on the fence rails for more pictures and continued to answer the ceaseless questions. "I wish all the people we have met along the way could be here now," Cayla cried. "It's so good to be here and now we can have a vacation."

Asked if that would be a lot of people she replied: "Heavens yes, we moved in a new family every night. The farmers in Pennsylvania were wonderful to us."

Tribute Is Paid
During the buffet luncheon on the terrace which overlooks the wide green Bearsville valley, Dr. Hitzig spoke a welcome to his "distinguished guests" and introduced Wilma Hervey, as chairman of the day. Miss Hervey, former owner of the Hitzig farm, who had arranged the day's events, in turn introduced Rosabel Mann, who expressed appreciation for the "job these youngsters did."

"It's taken stamina, courage and character," Mrs. Mann said. It has been like a beacon light. You have something to live up to now."

Miss Hervey then presented gifts to the girls and identification bracelets to the boys. "I've had plenty of day dreams this summer about coming up the Bearsville road, but our day dreams never lived up to this," Cayla replied to the tribute.

Dr. Hitzig, who later displayed a magnificent tiger skin, from a beast he shot in India in 1951, now decorating the living room floor, expressed concern about the aspect of the adventure. In addition to his family and assorted horses and dogs, he now has seven more horses to feed at a cost of $8 per day. "I'm not sure just how much those ponies are worth," he laughed, "but they cost $200 apiece."

The adventure originated with Nini Galpin, who attended the University of Texas at Austin. Cayla, who will return to Brearly School in New York, and who is preparing for Oxford, has been associated with Nini in various horse shows, both being experienced horsewomen.

Rupert, who still insists that he doesn't like horses, will return as a sophomore at Milton Academy, Milton, Mass. Bruce Whitely, son of Mrs. Karin Whitely, New York, will resume his studies as a junior at Friends Academy, L. I.

All four agreed that "school will be a vacation" which is understandable when they disclosed the schedule to which they have adhered throughout the trip: 2 a. m. arise and feed horses; 4 a. m. breakfast; 5 a. m. saddle horses and move; travel at rate of 3 miles per hour; 6 to 8 p. m. unsaddle and feed and pasture horses; 8 p. m. dinner and sleep.

The only casualty en route was the injury to Bruce's horse when it was frightened by a snake in Tennessee. Occasional delays occurred when they were unable to find blacksmiths, lameness or injury to the mounts, such as saddle sores, lameness, or injuries occasioned during fights between the horses.

Threatened As Gypsies
To lighten the pack load considerable clothing and equipment including tents was discarded, and as they became somewhat "less prepossessing," finally were threatened with arrest as "gypsies" in Ohio.

"We were cleaner than we are now," laughed Cayla, who along with Nini wears blue jeans, plaid shirt and a flim of dust as becomingly as a ball gown.

Obviously none of them found anything wrong with Bearsview grass.
"Let's see how you pitched camp," someone asked and while lunch awaited they obligingly pulled sleeping bags from the pack, perched on the fence rails for more pictures and continued to answer the ceaseless questions.
"I wish all the people we have met along the way could be here now," Cayla cried. "It's so good to be here and now we can have a vacation."
Asked if that would be a lot of people she replied: "Heavens yes, we moved in a new family every night. The farmers in Pennsylvania were wonderful to us."

Tribute Is Paid

During the buffet luncheon on the terrace which overlooks the wide green Bearsview valley, Dr. Hitzig spoke a welcome to the "distinguished guests" and introduced Wilma Hervey, as chairman of the day. Miss Hervey, former owner of the Hitzig farm, who had arranged the day's events, in turn introduced Rosabell Mann, who expressed appreciation for the "job these youngsters did."

"It's taken stamina, courage and character," Mrs. Mann said. It has been like a beacon light. You have something to live up to now."

Miss Hervey then presented gifts to the girls and identification bracelets to the boys.
"I've had plenty of day dreams this summer about coming up the Bearsview road, but our day dreams never lived up to this," Cayla replied to the tribute.

Dr. Hitzig, who later displayed a magnificent tiger skin, from a beast he shot in India in 1951, now decorating the living room floor, expressed concern about one aspect of the adventure. In addition to his family and assorted horses and dogs, he now has seven more horses to feed at a cost of $8 per day. "I'm not sure just how much those ponies are worth," he laughed, "but they cost $200 apiece."

The adventure originated with Nini Galpin who attended the University of Texas at Austin. Cayla, who will return to Bearview School in New York, and who is preparing for Oxford, has been associated with Nini in various horse shows, both being experienced horsewomen.

Rupert, who still insists that he doesn't like horses, will return as a sophomore at Milton Academy, Milton, Mass. Bruce Whitely, son of Mrs. Karin Whitely, New York, will resume his studies as a junior at Friends Academy, L. I.

All four agreed that "school will be a vacation" which is understandable when they disclosed the schedule to which they have adhered throughout the trip: 2 a. m. arise and feed horses; 4 a. m. breakfast; 5 a. m. saddle horses and move; travel at rate of 3 miles per hour; 6 to 8 p. m. unsaddle and feed and pasture horses; 8 p. m. dinner and sleep.

The injury to Bruce's horse when it was frightened by a snake in Tennessee. Occasional delays occurred when they were unable to find blacksmiths, lameness or injury to the mounts, such as saddle sores, lameness, or injuries occasioned during fights between the horses.

Threatened As Gypsies

To lighten the pack load considerable clothing and equipment including tents was discarded, and as they became somewhat "less prepossessing," finally were threatened with arrest as "gypsies" in Ohio.

"We were cleaner than we are now," laughed Cayla, who along with Nini wears blue jeans, plaid shirt and a film of dust as becomingly as a ball gown.

Above all the young folk have learned the hard way and experienced first hand the warmth and good will of the many Americans they met along the way.

Suffers Leg Injury When Struck by Auto

Francis Leslie Sullivan, 49, suffered a leg injury when he was struck by an automobile while he was walking across Route 9W near his home in Highland about 9:25 p. m. Friday, state police reported.

The accident took place on the overpass north of the Highland traffic circle.

Sullivan, after treatment by Dr. Carl F. Meekins for a lacerated left leg, possible fractured left ankle and abrasions of the face and forehead, was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie for observation and examination for possible internal injuries, troopers said. Luxurious cashmere has blossomed out this fall, moving into the realm of suits, dresses, skirts and coats both dressy and casual. We show here three cashmere coats, each of them destined to lead a different life. Fluid fitted coat (center) falls into folds as soft and gentle as those of a sheer woolen dress. "Little boy look" finds new treatment (left) in coat with high waist and deep, easy sleeves. The utter luxury of white cashmere with mink (right) makes the kind of coat most women yearn to own. This one costs less than an inexpensive fur coat, is one of the dramatic coats of the season. All three designs by Seymour Fox.

The Mature Parent

Here's Another Point on Being 'Brother's Keeper'

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some weeks ago I wrote a daring column. It challenged the idea that we're our brother's "keeper." Not surprisingly, it startled some readers. So I'm glad to illustrate my point in a letter from a Mrs. W.

Her husband is very angry with her. He's so rude to her before the children that they have become rude, too. The other day when Mrs. W. reproved her daughter for impudence, her child retorted, "Father is always telling you to mind your own business. Why shouldn't I?"

"All my married life," writes Mrs. W. despairingly, "I have tried to build up my husband's ego. But the thanks I get is just humiliation before the children."

Perhaps Mr. W. believes that his ego is in such good condition that it requires no "building up." Has this possibility ever occurred to his wife?

If it hasn't, maybe it might. To love, we have to endow another person with his own integrity. This includes the ability to trust his own strength, goodness and intelligence.

Just as our neighbor may resent our insistence that we can "keep" him better than he can "keep" himself, so a husband may find our persistent support offensive.

Both the neighbor and the husband may sense domination in our efforts to reassure them. They may come to regard us as officious, rather than truly helpful people who can give the human brother credit for strength, goodness and intelligence of his own.

So it is quite possible to enrage a husband by "building up" his ego the wrong way.

For example, if we felt that we were not worth much ourselves, we might find ourselves supervising his ego most irritatingly. By deflating him into a person who needs our "keeping," we would imply that we were stronger, better and wiser than he. As he came to suspect that our reassurance was nothing but inflation of ourselves, he could become quite resentful. He might indeed tell us to mind our own business.

Under such circumstances, he'd be giving us good advice. We do have pressing business of our own to think about. If we're really doubtful of our value to him, it is wise to realize it and stop handing out charity we need ourselves.

It is just possible that a truthful admission that we don't really think we're so wonderful might bring us closer to him than all our attempts to build up his self-respect.

Missing Clerk Shows Up With $6,900 Funds

Yonkers, Oct. 3 (AP)—Department store clerk Michael Attamanchuck, 25, whom police had sought in the disappearance of $6,100 in store funds, walked into city court yesterday with $6,900.

Through Attorney James Bennett, Attamanchuck said the amount he was supposed to have placed in a night depository Saturday was the larger sum.

Police theorized that their information might have contained a typographical error. Wanted notices had been sent to 13 states.

The clerk's employer indicated willingness to drop prosecution after the money was returned. Attamanchuck was charged with grand larceny, however, and the decision left to the district attorney.

Attamanchuck did not disclose his whereabouts since early Sunday, when he left home after telling his wife he intended to get his automobile serviced.

IT'S TIME NOW . . .

Now is the time when you should begin shopping for whatever new furniture you plan for your home this fall. Many of the factories producing the better lines in dining room, living room and bedroom furniture, rapidly become oversold as the Fall season volume picks up. Therefore, it's much wiser to order in advance. You have a wider choice now. A small deposit will hold your selection — and you can budget the balance if you desire.

My wife and I will be pleased to go over your furniture and decorating needs with you—quote you prices so you can compare with the stores in the higher overhead districts. Our home and our business is here in the country where the overhead is low. You benefit from our low overhead operating costs with much lower prices than any store in the usual business area could hope to meet. Come up and look over our well stocked showrooms. Compare prices on our nationally advertised better lines in guaranteed furniture. We feel sure you'll agree with us and with our many friends who have made their purchases here. They say:

Featured in Autumn Dresses, Suits

Luxurious cashmere has blossomed out this fall, moving into the realm of suits, dresses, skirts and coats both dressy and casual. We show here three cashmere coats, each of them destined to lead a different life. Fluid fitted coat (center) falls into folds as soft and gentle as those of a sheer woolen dress. "Little boy look" finds new treatment (left) in coat with high waist and deep, easy sleeves. The utter luxury of white cashmere with mink (right) makes the kind of coat most women yearn to own. This one costs less than an inexpensive fur coat, is one of the dramatic coats of the season. All three designs by Seymour Fox.

The Mature Parent

Here's Another Point on Being 'Brother's Keeper'

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some weeks ago I wrote a daring column. It challenged the idea that we're our brother's "keeper." Not surprisingly, it startled some readers. So I'm glad to illustrate my point in a letter from Mrs. W.

Her husband is very angry with her. He's so rude to her before the children that they have become rude, too. The other day when Mrs. W. reproved her daughter for impudence, her child retorted, "Father is always telling you to mind your own business. Why shouldn't I?"

"All my married life," writes Mrs. W. despairingly, "I have tried to build up my husband's ego. But the thanks I get is just humiliation before the children."

Perhaps Mr. W. believes that his ego is in such good condition that it requires no "building up." Has this possibility ever occurred to his wife?

If it hasn't, maybe it might. To love, we have to endow another person with his own integrity. This includes the ability to trust his own strength, goodness and intelligence.

Just as our neighbor may resent our insistence that we can "keep" him better than he can "keep" himself, so a husband may find our persistent support offensive.

Both the neighbor and the husband may sense domination in our efforts to reassure them. They may come to regard us as officious, rather than truly helpful people who can give the human brother credit for strength, goodness and intelligence of his own.

So it is quite possible to enrage a husband by "building up" his ego the wrong way.

For example, if we felt that we were not worth much ourselves, we might find ourselves supervising his ego most irritatingly. By deflating him into a person who needs our "keeping," we would imply that we were stronger, better and wiser than he. As he came to suspect that our reassurance was nothing but inflation of ourselves, he could become quite resentful. He might indeed tell us to mind our own business.

Under such circumstances, he'd be giving us good advice. We do have pressing business of our own to think about. If we're really doubtful of our value to him, it is wise to realize it and stop handing out charity we need ourselves.

It is just possible that a truthful admission that we don't really think we're so wonderful might bring us closer to him than all our attempts to build up his self-respect.

Asks Enforcement Of Laws Governing Tenement Housing

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—Frank P. Tufaro, president of the New York State Home Builders Association, says "not a thing is being done to enforce" the laws relating to tenement housing.

(Tufaro was recently elected to his fourth term as state president of the Republican Columbian League, when the Italian-American organization held its convention in Kingston).

Tufaro, addressing the association's first annual convention yesterday, further charged that public officials, "being political minded, throw the public the bone of public housing."

Persons in slum areas would be happier, he said, if they could live in their own neighborhood in rehabilitated dwellings and not be "forced" to go into public projects.

Action Lacking, He Says

Tufaro added that Joseph D. McGoldrick, state rent administrator, had offered his services to cooperate with any landlord who wished to rehabilitate but that no large scale action was being undertaken.

The association head cited New Orleans, Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., as cities where rehabilitation programs were in progress.

Emanuel M. Spiegel, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said the lack of rehabilitation represented "a creeping paralysis which may be found all over the country and is unique in this (New York) city only because it has so many four and five story buildings."

A panel on water districts discussed the problems raised by "varying practices" of private utilities and water districts in fixing charges for water main installations which ranged from no charge up to heavy costs.

Call for Legislation

It was proposed that remedial legislation be sought providing for uniform operation of water districts and private companies.

In another panel discussion Samuel Kuperman, of the Kuperman Construction Corp. of Ramapo, N. Y., said that planners in his township had insisted on a residential plot of five-eighths of an acre as a means of maintaining the appearance of the community.

Kuperman said he wanted to know how $12,000 to $15,000 homes could be profitably built on such areas.

Hugh R. Pomeroy, director of the Westchester County Department of planning, suggested that Kuperman contact George May, newly appointed Rockland county planning director, who "will give you good guidance."

Builders from all parts of the state, including several hundred from Long Island, are attending the convention which ends tomorrow.

Glamour to Kitchen

If you're repainting your kitchen and wish that your refrigerator matched your wall or trim, you can have it spiced in the color you desire at the nearest auto-body-finishing shop.

This may be further enhanced by installing plain glass shelves across the window. On these, glassware interspersed with green growing plants and vines may be displayed.

In a dual-purpose room, a one-room apartment, or any room where space is at a premium, the use of a bay window provides simultaneously for storage, meal service, growing plants and display of glassware collection.

Value of Creosote

Creosote is an old standby as a preservative, delaying rot in wood that is in contact with the ground, such as fence posts. A railway tie treated with creosote lasts about 25 years.

GI's Bought Wisely

Sixty-six per cent of all new homes purchased in the first six months of this year with a VA home loan sold for less than $10,000.

Placing the Kitchen

Since cooking adds to the warmth of the kitchen, it is advisable to locate the kitchen for maximum protection from the additional heat of the sun. This can usually be accomplished by placing the kitchen to the north or northeast.

Register to Vote

Register today so you can vote in the general election to be held next month. If you want to vote, you have to register. The polls will be open tonight until 10 o'clock.

Don't Waste Heat

Be sure the fireplace damper is closed when the fireplace is not in use. Otherwise warm air will escape from the house through the chimney.

Good Light Needed In Home Laundry

Work in the home laundry is much more pleasant and far easier if this place is planned rather than just putting the equipment off in a dark corner.

Since the average laundry is in the basement, additional light is essential. Use daylight fluorescent tubes for easy seeing and make the space around the washer, ironer and other equipment gay with color. Put the equipment as near a window as possible with the ironer directly beneath the opening.

Paint the walls pastel green for coolness. Hang narrow, straight moisture-resistant plastic curtains with bright red figures beside the window, not over it. A few bright red decalcomanias on the wall add more color. Cover the concrete floor with asphalt tile in light buff, green, yellow or cream. Use contrasting black or dark brown tiles of this moisture-resistant flooring to create your own interesting floor pattern of stripes, squares, rectangles or triangles.

A bay window in the living-dining room can serve as an attractive and convenient space-saver. Build into it a sill-height closed cabinet with front flush with the wall on either side of the bay. The top of the cabinet being sill-height will serve admirably as a sideboard or buffet table, while in the closed cabinet may be stored glassware, dishes and table linens.

Near the bay, place a trestle table, rectangular library table or drop leaf table. This can be used for dining, yet will double for sitting-room purposes between meals. The top of the cabinet in the bay may hold pieces of handmade American glassware of clear crystal or in shades of ruby red, amethyst and topaz. Light coming through the windows will play dramatically on the glassware and create a beautiful focal point in the room.

This may be further enhanced by installing plain glass shelves across the window. On these, glassware interspersed with green growing plants and vines may be displayed.

In a dual-purpose room, a one-room apartment, or any room where space is at a premium, the use of a bay window provides simultaneously for storage, meal service, growing plants and display of glassware collection.

Wash Before Painting

Before re-painting walls that have previously been painted with an oil paint should be washed thoroughly with a detergent to remove all grease and dirt. This is particularly true of a kitchen where cooking deposits a film of grease which — if not removed — will interfere with the drying and adhesion of new paint.

Closet for Two

A bedroom closet that is to be used by two persons should be at least 38 inches deep and 66 inches long. Built-in shelves and drawers, in addition to space to hang clothes, will increase its utility.

Well Planned for Comfort and Economy

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Three
Closets ..... Six
Cubage:

House ..... 20,500 ft.
Garage ..... 3,800 ft.
Dimensions ..... 36' x 27'

The attached garage, with its sloping roof, is an integral part of the over-all design of "The Burncoat"; it gives the house a more spacious, less box-like appearance. Blinds are suggested at the windows to dress-up and beautify the exterior.

Also adding to both the exterior and interior appeal of the house is the large picture window in the front wall of the living room. Try to choose a site for "The Burncoat" where this picture window will bring you the benefits of a natural scenic view; avoid the mistake of so many of today's home owners who have their homes constructed where the only view to be seen through the picture window is the passing street or highway.

There are six good sized rooms in "The Burncoat." In addition to the two regular bedrooms there is a 10' x 8' den which can be used as a third bedroom if one is desired. Both bedrooms and the den are well lighted and ventilated. Each bedroom has a closet; there is a closet opening on the central hallway, to the right of the den door, which can be constructed to open in the den if this room is to be used as a guest or regular bedroom.

Both a breakfast nook and a dining room are included. A short hallway connects the kitchen with the dining room while the breakfast nook is located in the left front corner of the kitchen.

Two windows looking out on the front deck provide an abundance of light and ventilation for the dining room. One window affords ample light and ventilation for the cozy breakfast nook.

Measuring 36' x 27', "The Burncoat" requires at least a 60 foot lot. Cubage of the house is 20,500 ft.; cubage of the garage is 3,800 ft.

Since there's no space allotted for the laundry in the house proper, it will have to be installed in the basement. You should have the laundry placed under the kitchen or bath; the heating plant should, then, be installed under the living room.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Think of the Future When Wiring House

Efficient, convenient and economical service from electric lights and appliances is possible only when the wiring is inadequate and with the almost daily development of new electrical facilities complete wiring should be given top consideration in home planning.

The house that is not sufficiently wired will soon be outmoded and its value reduced, architects declare.

An entrance cable must be provided to admit enough electricity for future as well as present needs, plus enough circuits of large enough wire and plenty of outlets and switches in the right locations. All too often a single outlet is placed right where it is covered by a heavy piece of furniture and this is a sure sign of thoughtless planning. One of the newer developments to overcome this is a wired strip with an outlet every two or three feet to be placed on top of the baseboard.

Casement Windows Blend in Any Home

One of the unique and interesting things about casement windows is that a group of casements seem to harmonize well with each class of construction and almost every period. Casements give a friendly air to a house, and blend beautifully in most cases.

There are steel casements and wooden casements, either of which may be used to advantage on a half-timbered house. If desired, transoms may be built over the casements and they may be fixed or allowed to open.

Out swinging casements are less likely to leak than a casement which swings into the house. In the outswinging casement, the screen must be placed on the inside.

Single-Color Scheme Is Popular in Homes

Among modern homes, one of the most popular color schemes is the "monochromatic" or one-color scheme, which employs varying tints and shades of a single hue.

If a homemaker likes green and wants lots of it in the living-room, this can be managed without monotony. There are many tints and shades of green which can be used on walls, in draperies, floor coverings and furniture fabrics to achieve a beautiful monochromatic effect.

Contrasting accents will be effective. For example, try a medium green rug, light green walls, with either blue-green or yellow-green draperies, and dark green furniture fabrics. For color accents, use a bright red occasional chair and red lamp shades.

Smoother Than Smooth

To make a piece of wood really smooth, wet it down slightly after sanding. This will raise the grain of the wood. When it is dry, sand it again. Repeat this process several times and the wood will be smooth as silk.

Fragrance in Plants

Self-fertilizing plants have little or no scent; those that must attract insects for pollination are the most fragrant.

Brighten Pipes

Discoloration on brass and copper waste pipes usually can be removed by washing with ammonia.

Rich in Timber

There is enough marketable timber in Illinois forests to build 800,000 six-room homes. That's almost as many homes as will be built this year in the whole country.

Cleaning Tile Floor

A glazed tile floor is best cleaned with a damp cloth, rather than a mop. It's less apt to leave dirt in the crevices between the tiles.

Asks Enforcement Of Laws Governing Tenement Housing

New York, Oct. 3 (AP)—Frank P. Tufaro, president of the New York State Home Builders Association, says "not a thing is being done to enforce" the laws relating to tenement housing.

(Tufaro was recently elected to his fourth term as state president of the Republican Columbian League, when the Italian-American organization held its convention in Kingston.)

Tufaro, addressing the association's first annual convention yesterday, further charged that public officials, "being political minded, throw the public the bone of public housing."

Persons in slum areas would be happier, he said, if they could live in their own neighborhood in rehabilitated dwellings and not be "forced" to go into public projects.

Action Lacking, He Says
Tufaro added that Joseph D. McGoldrick, state rent administrator, had offered his services to cooperate with any landlord who wished to rehabilitate but that no large scale action was being undertaken.

The association head cited New Orleans, Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., as cities where rehabilitation programs were in progress.

Emanuel M. Spiegel, president of the National Association of Home Builders, said the lack of rehabilitation represented "a creeping paralysis which may be found all over the country and is unique in this (New York) city only because it has so many four and five story buildings."

A panel on water districts discussed the problems raised by "varying practices" of private utilities and water districts in fixing charges for water main installations which ranged from no charge up to heavy costs.

Call for Legislation
It was proposed that remedial legislation be sought providing for uniform operation of water districts and private companies.

In another panel discussion Samuel Kuperman, of the Kuperman Construction Corp. of Ramapo, N. Y., said that planners in his township had insisted on residential plots of five-eighths of an acre as a means of maintaining the appearance of the community.

Kuperman said he wanted to know how $12,000 to $15,000 homes could be profitably built on such areas.

Hugh R. Pomeroy, director of the Westchester County Department of planning, suggested that Kuperman contact George May, newly appointed Rockland county planning director, who "will give you good guidance."

Builders from all parts of the state, including several hundred from Long Island, are attending the convention which ends tomorrow.

Glamour to Kitchen
If you're repainting your kitchen and wish that your refrigerator matched your wall or trim, you can have it sprayed in the color you desire at the nearest auto-body-finishing shop.

Value of Creosote
Creosote is an old standby as a preservative, delaying rot in wood that is in contact with the ground, such as fence posts. A railway tie treated with creosote lasts about 25 years.

GI's Bought Wisely
Sixty-six per cent of all new homes purchased in the first six months of this year with a VA home loan sold for less than $10,000.

Placing the Kitchen
Since cooking adds to the warmth of the kitchen, it is advisable to locate the kitchen for maximum protection from the additional heat of the sun. This can usually be accomplished by placing the kitchen to the north or northeast.

Register to Vote
Register today so you can vote in the general election to be held next month. If you want to vote, you have to register. The polls will be open tonight until 10 o'clock.

The top of the cabinet being sill-height will serve admirably as a sideboard or buffet table, while in the closed cabinet may be stored glassware, dishes and table linens.

Kingston Beats Part in DUSO Opener, 20-0

Johnson, Massa Spark Second Half Offensive

There are two Charlie Johnsons operating in the 1953 DUSO football season, and it's going to be quite a battle to determine which is superior—the Kingston brand or the Poughkeepsie edition.

Handed the responsibility of filling Orville Giles' very large shoes, the Maroon's Charlie Johnson, a 220 man in sprints, responded with a magnificent performance last night to spearhead Kingston's decisive 20-0 triumph over Port Jervis in the DUSO opener at the tri-state city.

The other Charlie Johnson was unveiled in DUSO competition this afternoon when Poughkeepsie tackled Newburgh Academy at the Hill City.

Not far behind Johnson in the glitter department was Gene Massa, who played a brilliant defensive game and was death on stray Port aeriels.

Port Aces Injured

The Port Jervis setback was a costly one for the losers who might have lost the services of two of their top players for the remainder of the season.

End John Ross suffered a concussion on a blistering tackle in the third period, and was removed to the Port Jervis Hospital. His condition was reported good.

A few minutes later Dick Beams, the Port quarterback who does the bulk of the passing and kicking for Coach Roger Robinson's eleven, was carried off the field on a stretcher. Beams, according to the attending physician, suffered torn ligaments in his legs and is probably through for the 1953 campaign.

Johnson Goes 61

Johnson cracked 61 yards off his right side in the third period to send Kingston ahead 6-0 and remove the Burkenmen from a sluggish frame of mind that had characterized their first half play. By game's end the fleet halfback had picked up 167 yards, including sprints of 28 and 34 yards besides the TD jaunt. The impression exists that not only in the league will ever catch Charlie once he gets into the open.

Kingston marched 50 yards for its second score later in the same period, quarterback Roger Billings bulling over from the 2. A roughing penalty aided the Maroon to the Port 21 and a key play was a gaudy catch by Fred Jackson on a 19-yard pass from the Port 23. Ray Roux, who replaced Jay Souers in the starting fullback role, cracked left tackle for two yards and Billings carried over. Massa placekicked for the second straight time to make it 14-0.

Massa To Pass

The third touchdown occurred with dramatic suddenness late in the fourth quarter when Port's Joe Lane was involved in a series of desperation forward passes. Massa intercepted on the Kingston 40 cut for the right sideline and moved to the glory road without a hand touching.

Not a hand touched Johnson on his electrifying 61 jaunt. Dick Beams, Port quarterback who was later injured, tailed Johnson to the Port 30 and then fell on his face after missing a desperation lunge at Kingston's new galloping ghost.

One Port Threat

Port made only one menacing gesture, a 51-yard trek that came to grief when Billings intercepted a pass on the Kingston early in the last period. Lane's barrage of passes hit for two first downs. Kingston offense set up first down on the Maroon 28 but the local defense asserted itself at this point.

Lane passed six yards to Freytag to the 22 and the latter, Port's best driving back, picked up four more. But Fred Jackson came crashing in from his left end post to spill Freytag for a five-yard loss back to the 23. Lane tried to hit Freytag with a fourth-down TD pass, only Billings got there first and that ended the only Red and Black threat.

The statistical story leaned heavily toward Kingston. The Maroons picked up 205 yards rushing, with a net of 180, to 106 gross and 90 net for the Raiders. Kingston survived 60 yards worth of penalties without serious trouble and gained 41 yards on passes. Poughkeepsie ruled a slight favorite for its DUSO fracas with NFA today. And the KHS scouting corps was to attend—en oto.

Erskine's Classic Stint Gives Brooks New Hope

Brooklyn, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers were back in the World Series today on the strength of one of the greatest pitching performances in the history of the classic and a home run right out of the story book.

When Carl Erskine struck out 14 Yankees in achieving his brilliant 3-2 victory yesterday he broke a record which had stood for 24 years and set a new standard which might well exist much longer than that. The four-time world champions hit only one really hard ball off the youthful Brooklyn ace, even though they chipped him for six singles.

Campanella Hero
Roy Campanella, whose right hand throbbed painfully from the blow it received in the opening game from an Allie Reynolds fast ball. Wrapped the contest up neatly when he leaned into Vic Raschi's first pitch in the eighth inning and propelled it far up into the left field seats. The handsome young curver and the burly backstop were co-heroes in this baseball hotbed today.

Loes Goes Today
While they were not yet out of the woods, the National League champions had at least avoided the ignominy of a four-straight blanking and had to be given some chance of tying the play-off at two victories apiece as they sent another young right-hander, Billy Loes, out to duel Whitey Ford today. Chuck Dressen's boys have been death on left-handers in their own park all season.

Still, Loes lacks considerable of being an Erskine, as who doesn't.

It was a great comeback for both of them. Erskine was the outstanding goat of the opening game at the stadium when lack of control cost him four runs in the first inning. He made up for that, and more, and the Yanks will take no pleasure at the thought of seeing him again.

For two games, ever since Reynolds pinked him his first time up in the opener, Campy had virtually a dead weight with the stick up to the moment of his triumph. He didn't think he would even attempt to play yesterday, and there was some surprise that he did.

Erskine Tremendous
Erskine really had it. His fast ball was a blue darter and his sweeping curve had the Yanks tied in knots. When he struck out two successive pinchhitters in the ninth to tie and better the previous record of 13 whiffs by Howard Ehmke of the Philadelphia Athletics in the 1929 Series against the Chicago Cubs, the crowd was riding on his every pitch, pulling for him to achieve his goal.

Don Bollweg, the 13th victim, didn't even get a piece of the ball in three murderous swings. Veteran Johnny Mize, who was Erskine's unwilling accomplice in the record breaker, managed only to foul off one fast ball before he went down cutting at the air.

Perhaps the most futile pair on the field were Joe Collins and Mickey Mantle of the Yanks. Each of them fanned four successive times. Mantle in particular looked like a beginner against curves that swept over the outside corner for the third strike in each instance. There was some wonder that Casey Stengel let both of them bat in the eighth with the score knotted at 2-2. Two Yanks were on base when Mantle, the hitting hero of the second game, went down the fourth time.

Furillo's Catch
The hardest ball hit by the American Leaguers all afternoon was Billy Martin's long fly in the sixth inning which Carl Furillo hauled down with a leaping one-handed catch in deep right centerfield. Only one other putout was made by a Dodger outfielder, and that was a short pop by Gil McDougald that Jackie Robinson raced in to snare in the third frame.

None of the three straight hits which gave the so-called Bombers their first run in the fifth inning amounted to much. First Peewee Reese, then Junior Gilliam and finally Billy Cox knocked down sharply hit bouncers but couldn't find the handle in time to make a throw.

Larry Berra's single to open the sixth found the slot between the Dodgers first and second basemen, and the fifth, by Hank Bauer in the eighth, went through the box. Only Gene Woodling's two-out single which delivered Bauer with the tying run was a real, genuine blow into the outfield.

Raschi Effective
Grim Vic Raschi didn't lack a whole lot of matching Erskine, except in the matter of strikeouts. The veteran right-hander was rough all the way, and except for Jackie Robinson the Dodgers were kept well in line until Campanella's big clout.

For the first four innings the home team made only one clean hit, a shot by Gil Hodges through the shortstop-third base hole to open the second. Robinson, feeling none too happy at having been dropped down to seventh place in the batting order, doubled off the right-field wall with one down in the fifth. He worried Raschi into committing a balk to reach third and then scored easily as Cox laid a bunt down toward Martin at second.

Robinson Rebounds
That tied it at 1-1, and again it was Robinson feeling his oats when the Dodgers forged in front in the next inning. After Duke Snider had singled and Hodges had drawn a walk, Campanella popped out trying to sacrifice them along and Furillo fanned. Robinson then came through with a clean single to left field to drive Snider across.

That looked as though it might take care of the game the way Erskine was smoking them over, but the Yanks had one more arrow in their bow. With one down in the eighth, Bauer shot his only hit of the game past the box and Berra got hit by a pitched ball. Mantle fanned for the fourth time, but Woodling followed with his single to tie it up again.

Then came Campanella's homer and you just should have watched Erskine pitch that last inning out of appreciation.

Middies Beat Kingston High In Cross Country

Middletown High shaded Kingston High in cross country, 27-30, in a dual meet Friday at municipal stadium wherein all the blue chips were decided in a thrilling three-man photo finish for third place.

Gene MacClelland, the Middie ace, outdistanced the field by nine seconds to win first place in the excellent time of 11 minutes 57 seconds. The track record is 11:20.

Bucky Miller of Kingston finished second in 12:06 but the real battle developed in the next trio. Kelly and Winkler of Middletown and the Maroon's Robert Bailey came roaring down the stretch almost side by side.

Photo Finish
The finish was like one of those photo jobs at the racetrack but the judges ruled that both Middie runners had shaved Bailey by an eyelash. All three were clocked simultaneously in 12:15.

Instead of Kingston getting the third place that would have won the meet, Bailey was consigned fifth place, with Kelly and Winkler winding up third and fourth, respectively. That was the story. The order of finish:

1. MacClelland, Middletown, 11:57.
2. Bucky Miller, Kingston, 12:06.
3. Kelly, Middletown, 12:15.
4. Winkler, Middletown, 12:15.
5. Robert Bailey, Kingston, 12:15.
6. John Browne, Kingston, 12:23.
7. Cole, Middletown, 12:26.

10. Robert Campbell, Kingston, 12:44.
11. Paul Rodriguez, Kingston, 12:51.
12. Ulrich, Middletown, 13:00.
13. Ken Barr, Kingston, 13:04.
14. Newell, Middletown, 13:42.

Other finishers: DeWitt, Middletown; Smith, Kingston; Morse, Middletown.

Kingston Beats Port in USO Opener, 20-0

Johnson, Massa Spark Second Half Offensive

There are two Charlie Johnsons operating in the 1953 DUSO football season, and it's going to be quite a battle to determine which is superior—the Kingston brand or the Poughkeepsie edition.

Handed the responsibility of filling Orville Giles' very large shoes, the Maroon's Charlie Johnson, a 220 man in sprints, responded with a magnificent performance last night to spearhead Kingston's decisive 20-0 triumph over Port Jervis in the DUSO opener at the tri-state city.

The other Charlie Johnson was unveiled in DUSO competition this afternoon when Poughkeepsie tackled Newburgh Academy at the Hill City.

Not far behind Johnson in the glitter department was Gene Massa, who played a brilliant defensive game and was death on stray Port aeriels.

Port Aces Injured

The Port Jervis setback was a costly one for the losers who might have lost the services of two of their top players for the remainder of the season.

End John Ross suffered a concussion on a blistering tackle in the third period, and was removed to the Port Jervis Hospital. His condition was reported good.

A few minutes later Dick Beams, the Port quarterback who does the bulk of the passing and kicking for Coach Roger Robinson's eleven, was carried off the field on a stretcher. Beams, according to the attending physician, suffered torn ligaments in his legs and is probably through for the 1953 campaign.

Johnson Goes 61

Johnson cracked 61 yards off his right side in the third period to send Kingston ahead 6-0 and remove the Burken from the character of first half play. By game's end the fleet halfback had picked up 167 yards, including sprints of 28 and 34 yards besides the TD jaunt. The impression exists that nobody in the league will ever catch Charlie once he gets into the open.

Kingston marched 50 yards for its second score later in the same period, quarterback Roger Billings bulling over the 2. A roughing penalty aided the Maroon to the Port 21 and a key play was a gaudy catch by Fred Jackson on a 19-yard pass from the Port 23. Ray Roux, who replaced Jay Souers in the starting fullback role, cracked left tackle for two yards and Billings carried over Massa placekicked for the second straight time to make it 14-0.

Massa To Pass

The third touchdown occurred with dramatic suddenness late in the fourth quarter when Port's Joe Lane was involved in a series of desperation forward passes. Massa intercepted on the Kingston 40 cut for the right sideline and moved to the glory road without a hand touching.

Not a hand had touched Johnson on his electrifying 61 jaunt. Dick Beams, Port quarterback who was later injured, tailed Johnson to the Port 30 and then fell on his face after missing a desperation lunge at Kingston's new galloping ghost.

One Port Threat

Port made only one menacing gesture, a 51-yard trek that came to grief when Billings intercepted a pass on the Kingston early in the last period. Lane's barrage of passes hit for two first downs. A Kingston offense set up first down on the Maroon 28 but the local defense asserted itself at this point.

Lane poked six yards to Freytag to the 22 and the latter, Port's best driving back, picked up four more. But Fred Jackson came crashing in from his left end post to spill Freytag for a five-yard loss back to the 23. Lane tried to hit Freytag with a fourth-down TD pass, only Billings got there first and that ended the only Red and Black threat.

The statistical story leaned heavily toward Kingston. The Maroons picked up 205 yards rushing, with a net of 180, to 106 gross and 90 net for the Raiders. Kingston survived 60 yards worth of penalties without serious trouble and gained 41 yards on passes. Poughkeepsie ruled a slight favorite for its DUSO fracas with NFA today. And the KHS scouting corps was to attend—en oto.

Joseph Duncan was re-elected president of the East Kingston Rod and Gun Club at the annual meeting last night at St. Libe-rata's Hall in East Kingston.

Erskine's Classic Stint Gives Brooks New Hope

Brooklyn, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers were back in the World Series today on the strength of one of the greatest pitching performances in the history of the classic and a home run right out of the story book.

When Carl Erskine struck out 14 Yankees in achieving his brilliant 3-2 victory yesterday he broke a record which had stood for 24 years and set a new standard which might well exist much longer than that. The four-time world champions hit only one really hard ball off the youthful Brooklyn ace, even though they chipped him for six singles.

Campanella Hero

Roy Campanella, whose right hand throbbed painfully from the blow it received in the opening game from an Allie Reynolds fast ball, wrapped the contest up neatly when he leaped into the air to catch a home run in the eighth inning and propelled it far up into the left field seats. The handsome young curver and the burly backstop were co-heroes in this baseball hotbed today.

It was a great comeback for both of them. Erskine was the outstanding goat of the opening game at the stadium when lack of control cost him four runs in the first inning. He made up for that, and more, and the Yankees will take no pleasure at the thought of seeing him again.

For two games, ever since Reynolds poked him his first time up in the opener, Campy had virtually a dead weight with the stick up to the moment of his triumph. He didn't think he would even attempt to play yesterday, and there was some surprise that he did.

Loes Goes Today

While they were not yet out of the woods, the National League champions had at least avoided the ignominy of a four-straight blanking and had to be given some chance of tying the play-off at two victories apiece as they sent another young right-hander, Billy Loes, out to duel Yankee Ford today. Chuck Dressen's boys have been death on left-handers in their own park all season.

Still, Loes lacks considerable of being an Erskine, as who doesn't, and the Yankees remained firm favorites to win the series eventually. Reynolds was in the Yankee bullpen all through the third game, incidentally, and it is being taken for granted that he will be ready to do a little relief pitching when and if he is needed. His wrenched back is feeling much better.

Erskine Tremendous

Erskine really had it. His fast ball was a blue darter and his sweeping curve had the Yankees tied in knots. When he struck out two successive pinchhitters in the ninth to tie and better the previous record of 13 whiffs by Howard Ehmke of the Philadelphia Athletics in the 1929 Series against the Chicago Cubs the crowd was riding on his every pitch, pulling for him to achieve his goal.

Don Bollweg, the 13th victim, didn't even get a piece of the ball in three murderous swings. Veteran Johnny Mize, who was Erskine's unwilling accomplice in the record breaker, managed only to foul off one fast ball before he went down cutting at the air.

Perhaps the most futile pair on the field were Joe Collins and Mickey Mantle of the Yanks. Each of them fanned four successive times, Mantle in particular curving that swept over the outside corner for the third strike in each instance. There was some wonder that Casey Stengel let both of them bat in the eighth with the score knotted at 2-2. Two Yanks were on base when Mantle, the hitting hero of the second game, went down the fourth time.

Furillo's Catch

The hardest ball hit by the American Leaguers all afternoon was Billy Martin's long fly in the sixth inning which Carl Furillo hauled down with a leaping one-handed catch in deep right center field. Only one other outfield was made by a Dodger outfielder, and that was a short pop by Gil McDougald, the Jackie Robinson race in to snare in the third frame.

None of the three straight hits which gave the so-called Bombers their first run in the fifth inning amounted to much. First Peewee Reese, then Junior Gilliam and finally Billy Cox knocked down sharply hit batters but couldn't find the handle in time to make a throw.

Larry Berra's single to open the sixth found the slot between the Dodgers first and second basemen, and the fifth, by Hank Bauer in the eighth, went through the box. Only Gene Woodling's two-out single which delivered Bauer with the tying run was a real, genuine blow into the outfield.

Raschi Effective

Grim Vic Raschi didn't lack a whole lot of matching Erskine, except in the matter of strikeouts. The veteran right-hander was rough all the way, and except for Jackie Robinson the Dodgers were kept well in line until Campanella's big clout.

For the first four innings the home team made only one clean hit, a shot by Gil Hodges through the shortstop-third base hole to open the second. Robinson, feeling none too happy at having been dropped down to seventh place in the batting order, doubled off the right field wall with one down in the fifth. He worried Raschi into committing a balk to reach third and then scored easily as Cox laid a bun down toward Martin at second.

Robinson Rebounds

That tied it at 1-1, and again it was Robinson feeling his oats when the Dodgers forged in front in the next inning. After Duke Snider had singled and Hodges had drawn a walk, Campanella popped out trying to sacrifice them along and Furillo fanned. Robinson then came through with a clean single to left field to drive Snider across.

That looked as though it might take care of the game the way Erskine was smoking them over, but the Yanks had one more arrow in their bow. With one down in the eighth, Bauer shot his only hit of the game past the box and Berra got hit by a pitched ball. Mantle fanned for the fourth time, but Woodling followed with his single to tie it up again.

Then came Campanella's homer and you just should have watched Erskine pitch that last inning out of appreciation.

Erskine Sets All-Time Record

Roy Campanella (left), who hit the game winning homer, and Chuck Dressen, Dodger manager, lift Carl Erskine, who set a new all-time World Series record by striking out 14 Yankee batters. The Dodgers now trail the Yanks two games to one. (NEA Telephoto).

The Winning Run

Gene Woodling, Yankee outfielder, watches Roy Campanella's 8th inning homer (arrow) go into the stands for the winning run. The Dodgers beat the Yanks 3-2 and now the Series stands at two wins for the Yanks and one for the Dodgers. (NEA Telephoto).

Jay, First LL in Majors, Plays Here Next Sunday

Joey Jay, the first Little Leaguer in history to crash the major league ranks, has been added to the Frank Shea Major League stars for the Sunday, Oct. 11, exhibition at municipal stadium.

Jay is a southpaw pitcher for the Milwaukee Braves of the National League and made his big league debut late this season with a five-hit victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. He is a native of Middletown, Conn., and played high school and Little League ball there.

Steve Koback, Pittsburgh Pirate catcher, has replaced Gus Niarhos as catcher for the Major Leaguers, it was reported today.

The remainder of the Major League roster remains intact with Gil McDougald, Vic Raschi and Gene Woodling of the Yankees; Walt Dropo, Johnny Pesky, Eddie Pallagrini, Frank Shea, Bob Portier, Maury McDermott, Jim Fierell.

A major league pitcher yet to be named will hurl for the Hudson valley all stars against Shea's outfit.

NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers are the eyes, the ears and the voice of a free and uncensored press. America's free press, however, does not belong to the newspapers. It belongs to everybody—you, your family, your neighbors, your friends. America's free press is the property of the American people. It is a freedom to be protected and cherished.

When you pick up your newspaper you hold in your hands the work of thousands of people who are working, the world over, and at home too, so that you may KNOW.

Some chop the trees from which the paper is made. Others manufacture the paper. Some make ink, others type, others the machinery that prints your newspaper.

Perhaps those are not the glamorous jobs that go into newspaper making, but without them you'd have no newspaper. No local news, no comics, no advertising.

And of course there are the others—who gather the news, who write the news, who bring your city, county, state, country and the world to your doorstep.

Pressmen, Linotype operators, delivery boys take over from there to complete the circle—to print the news and bring it to you—so that you may KNOW.

Events at home and abroad must be reported, explained and understood if we are to act with intelligence. It is everybody's business to help keep our press unfettered.

Readers also have a responsibility—to READ their newspapers, to THINK about events reported, and to help protect this freedom that protects all of our freedoms.

Serving as a cog in the big wheel that is America's free press is YOUR business, your neighbor's business. It is OUR business, together, to keep a strong, free and uncensored press.

Ford Sees Some Hope

United Nations, Oct. 3 (AP)—Henry Ford II, in his first speech as a U. S. delegate to the UN saw hope in a Soviet bloc decision to help underdeveloped nations through the United Nations. "We note this indication of their interest," Ford said yesterday, "and trust that it will prove to be a really constructive and positive aid in our efforts. . . . Let us hope there is no thorn in this rose." Ford continued, before the UN Economic Committee: "I personally believe, as do most Americans, that it is essential for the nations here to find a way of working together on terms that will give people everywhere a real chance to live and prosper in dignity and mutual respect."

Paltz Assessment

was made on a property which he charged was worth $20,000. In another instance he said a portion of a property with 100-foot frontage was assessed for $100 after it had been sold while the remainder of the plot with a 250 frontage was assessed at only $50. He charged he had been given a $400 increase in assessment when he put in a blacktop driveway on his premises. The job had cost him $1,200 he said and the increase was out of proportion to other assessments in the town. He also referred to an exemption of $1,000 granted on a property which he said was assessed for only $1,150. All of these alleged irregularities which he spoke of he said had increased his own taxes.

Asks Full Value Assessment
"What I am asking is that all property be assessed at full value in the town," he told Justice MacAffer at one stage of the proceeding. He alleges the law requires all property to be assessed at full value and said under the present system used in assessing property in the town the "preferred boys" did not have to pay their proportionate share of taxes.

"Let me know on October 9 if you will accept the answer," Justice MacAffer told Gabrielli.

The temperature was expected to be in the upper 70's. The forecast for the fifth game on Sunday also promised "sunny and warm" weather with the temperature in the low 80's.

Jailed Labor Czar

was solidifying his political strength, and by 1930 was considered one of the "Big Four" of organized labor in the Garden state.

Extolled as Welcome

Once during these golden years, Fay came home from a European vacation and found a chartered boat waiting to welcome him down the bay. Aboard was the Jersey City Police Band, sent out as the personal greeting of Frank Hague, then the city's mayor and czar of the Democratic party in the state.

About this time too, a N. J. state Senate president told a political gathering in Newark: "I am interested in men like Fay. They represent one of the real forces in American life."

Fay reportedly had income sources other than the labor field during these days.

During Prohibition he conducted the Joseph Fay Association, with clubrooms and bar at 4 Fleming street, Newark, and the Fay Travel Association, which chartered trains for out-ings to Canada.

Fay was able to afford a 10-room brick house in the sedate Forest Hills section of Newark and a large summer home at Avon on the north Jersey shore.

Case Unsolved

In 1937, Joey Fay became a household name on both sides of the Hudson following the murder of R. Norman Redwood, a rival construction leader, in Teaneck, N. J.

John J. Breslin, Jr., Bergen county prosecutor, said flatly that Fay and Sam Rosoff, the late New York subway builder, had plotted the slaying, but neither man was indicted and the case has remained unsolved.

Fay returned behind the scenes, fists swinging. In 1940 he got into a fist fight with David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union at an ALF Convention in New Orleans after Dubinsky offered an anti-labor racketeering resolution to the delegates.

Slugging Charge Dropped

Two years later, Fay was accused at a state convention in Syracuse of slugging a Rochester business agent of his own union. The complainant disappeared temporarily, however, and the charge was dropped. Later the man got his union post back.

The trouble that sent Fay to Sing Sing broke into the open in the 40's. By then he was an international vice-president of the Operating Engineers' Union and president of the Newark local.

Indicted With Bove

Fay and James Bove, another international vice president were indicted for extorting $368,000 from contractors on the 300-million dollar Delaware Aqueduct.

NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers are the eyes, the ears and the voice of a free and uncensored press. America's free press, however, does not belong to the newspapers. It belongs to

Everybody—your family, your neighbors, your friends. America's free press is the property of the American people. It is a freedom to be protected and cherished.

When you pick up your newspaper you hold in your hands the work of thousands of people who are working, the world over, and at home too, so that you may KNOW.

Some chop the trees from which the paper is made. Others manufacture the paper. Some make ink, others type, others the machinery that prints your newspaper.

Perhaps those are not the glamorous jobs that go into newspaper making, but without them you'd have no newspaper. No local news, no comics, no advertising.

And of course there are the others—who gather the news, who write the news, who bring your city, county, state, country and the world to your doorstep.

Pressmen, Linotype operators, delivery boys take over from there to complete the circle—to print the news and bring it to you—so that you may KNOW.

Events at home and abroad must be reported, explained and understood if we are to act with intelligence. It is everybody's business to help keep our press unfettered.

Readers also have a responsibility—to READ their newspapers, to THINK about events reported, and to help protect this freedom that protects all of our freedoms.

Serving as a cog in the big wheel that is America's free press is YOUR business, your neighbor's business. It is OUR business, together, to keep a strong, free and uncensored press.

Paltz Assessment

was made on a property which he charged was worth $20,000. In another instance he said a portion of a property with 100-foot frontage was assessed for $100 after it had been sold while the remainder of the plot with a 250 frontage was assessed at only $50. He charged he had been given a $400 increase in assessment when he put in a blacktop driveway on his premises. The job had cost him $1,200 he said and the increase was out of proportion to other assessments in the town. He also referred to an exemption of $1,000 granted on a property which he said was assessed for only $1,150. All of these alleged irregularities which he spoke of he said had increased his own taxes.

Asks Full Value Assessment

"What I am asking is that all property be assessed at full value in the town," he told Justice MacAffer at one stage of the proceeding. He alleges the law requires all property to be assessed at full value and said under the present system used in assessing property in the town the "preferred boys" did not have to pay their proportionate share of taxes.

"Let me know on October 9 if you will accept the answer," Justice MacAffer told Gabrielli.

Jailed Labor Czar

was solidifying his political strength, and by 1930 was considered one of the "Big Four" of organized labor in the Garden state.

Extolled at Welcome

Once during these golden years, Fay came home from a European vacation and found a chartered boat waiting to welcome him down the bay. Aboard was the Jersey City Police Band, sent out as the personal greeting of Frank Hague, then the city's mayor and czar of the Democratic party in the state.

About this time too, a N. J. state Senate president told a political gathering in Newark: "I am interested in men like Fay. They represent one of the real forces in American life."

Fay reportedly had income sources other than the labor field during these days.

During Prohibition he conducted the Joseph Fay Association, with clubrooms and bar at 4 Fleming street, Newark, and the Fay Travel Association, which chartered trains for outings to Canada.

Fay was able to afford a 10-room brick house in the sedate Forest Hills section of Newark and a large summer home at Avon on the north Jersey shore.

Case Unsolved

In 1937, Joey Fay became a household name on both sides of the Hudson following the murder of R. Norman Redwood, a rival construction leader, in Teaneck, N. J.

John J. Breslin, Jr., Bergen county prosecutor, said flatly that Fay and Sam Rosoff, the late New York subway builder, had plotted the slaying, but neither man was indicted and the case has remained unsolved.

Fay returned behind the scenes, fists swinging. In 1940 he got into a fist fight with David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union at an ALF Convention in New Orleans after Dubinsky offered an anti-labor racketeering resolution to the delegates.

Slugging Charge Dropped

Two years later, Fay was accused at a state convention in Syracuse of slugging a Rochester business agent of his own union. The complainant disappeared temporarily, however, and the charge was dropped. Later the man got his union post back.

The trouble that sent Fay to Sing Sing broke into the open in the 40's. By then he was an international vice-president of the Operating Engineers' Union and president of the Newark local.

Indicted With Bove

Fay and James Bove, another international vice president, were indicted for extorting $368,000 from contractors on the 300-million dollar Delaware Aqueduct.

water supply project for New York city.

It was charged they got the money by threatening strikes and picket lines. In 1945 Fay and Bove were convicted. Fay was sentenced to a term of from 8½ to 16 years in prison, Bove 10 to 20 years.

Fay launched a complex series of legal maneuvers that kept him out of prison until 1947 when the Supreme Court turned down his appeal. Bove in the meantime had gone to Sing Sing.

But in prison just as when he was a free man, Fay's charm for politicians continued. Now 61 and in the seventh year of his sentence, big bluff Fay is once more a headline figure with disclosures that prominent men in politics and labor have been seeking to have him paroled.

And Gov. Battle wrote Foley that the return of the long-lost pumper "would be a gracious evidence of goodwill and deeply appreciated by the people of Alexandria and in fact of Virginia and the south."

The pumper was taken by federal forces reeling back toward Washington from defeat at the first Battle of Bull Run in 1861. Retreating, they moved out all military equipment—including the fire engine.
